

Labor Board to Rule Today on Living Wage For Maintenance Men

Southeastern Roads Chief Springs Surprise in Objecting to Argument for Increases.

NO DEMAND SUBMITTED TO INDIVIDUAL ROADS

Maintenance of Way Chief Formally Asks 48-Cent Hour as Minimum Pay for Men.

Sees No Government Coal Intervention

Philadelphia, Pa., August 28.—Government intervention or seizure of mines in the anthracite strike situation will not take place, it was learned tonight from a highly authoritative source. The information was given publication with the understanding that the informant's identity be not disclosed for the present.

Further information from this source was to the effect that very soon, probably within a week, representatives of the anthracite operators and miners will sign a peace pact that will send 155,000 miners back to work, with neither side receding from its present stand to make no further concessions.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Chicago, August 28.—With the resumption of the hearing tomorrow of the maintenance of way organization's case, involving wages and rules governing its 400,000 members, the railroad labor board will rule on the formal request to define the question, "what constitutes a living wage?" The announcement was made by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board, when he adjourned today's session. Jett Lauck, statistical expert for the maintenance of way organization, made a motion on behalf of President E. F. Grable and his colleagues, calling for the definition. A surprise came late today, in the form of an objection to Mr. Grable's argument for increases based on a 48-cent an hour minimum. The issue was brought forward by Dr. A. P. Neal, representative of the southeastern roads, who declared that Mr. Grable had no right under the transportation act to base his argument on this basis.

No Demands Made.

"The men have not in any case submitted to individual roads under my representation a demand for an increase in wages based on 48 cents an hour minimum," declared Dr. Neal. "Instead, in all conferences between the management and the maintenance of way representatives, the scale ranging from 26 1/2 to 48 cents an hour was discussed. Under the provisions of the transportation act, therefore, President Grable has no right to come before the board and argue for an increase, based on a 48-cent minimum, as this minimum was never at issue in any of our conferences."

John Higgins, representative of the eastern roads, and John G. Walker, spokesman for the eastern roads, both signified their approval and participation in Dr. Neal's objections, stating that the 48-cent minimum was never at issue in negotiations on their roads.

The board, Dr. Neal declared, had no right to consider a proposition that did not in any way resemble the original requests made on individual railroads. Chairman Hooper indicated on this point, until the submissions were checked to make positive that no reference has been made in them to a minimum of 48 cents an hour.

Argument in Case. If the objections interposed by Dr. Neal lead to expurgation from the record from all mention of 48 cents an hour minimum Mr. Grable will of necessity continue his argument on the basis of scales set forth in the submission of individual roads.

Lauck's motion for a living wage ruling came immediately after the noon recess. In support of it he read a lengthy manuscript dealing with

Frank B. DuPre Will Know Fate Tuesday Morning

Peachtree Bandit Again Expresses Hope Sentence Will Be Commuted.

Within a few hours Frank DuPre, condemned murderer, sentenced to be hanged Friday, will know his fate, Governor Thomas W. Hardwick announcing Monday, that he will render a final decision in the case Tuesday, probably at 10 o'clock in the morning. Because of the voluminous records to be examined the governor was unable to announce a decision Monday as planned. In the meantime DuPre pines his cell in the Fulton county tower expressing hope that the death sentence will be commuted while at the same time cringing a spirit of resignation to his fate should the governor decide that he must die on the gallows.

GOVERNOR REPLIES TO LABOR ATTACK

Personal Disappointment of Small Minority Led to Walker Indorsement, Governor Tells Gainesville.

Gainesville, Ga., August 28.—(Special.)—Declaring that only a small minority of the Georgia Federation of Labor was spoken for in the indorsement Sunday of Cliff Walker's candidacy by the non-partisan political campaign committee of the federation, Governor Hardwick replied to the committee's criticism of his administration, in his speech here today. "The whole trouble about the matter," the governor said, "is that a small element of the federation became disgruntled when I refused to appoint Louis P. Marquardt to a seat on the state industrial commission."

"In their report they ridicule the method I used in connection with the troops at Waycross, and in the same breath highly commend the exactly similar action of sending the troops to Fitzgerald. I was told by authorities at Fitzgerald that the rioting had subsided, and consequently I ordered the troops back home. "No such report has been made from Waycross to me. If the protection of the people of this state, and the upholding of law and order, as they set forth, then I am proud to be the greatest spendthrift that ever sat in the governor's chair, for I'm going to do my best to uphold the high standards of individual freedom which is ours through the bloodshed of our fathers, even if it kills me politically or otherwise."

"As to the troops remaining at Waycross," he continued, "I have no other course to pursue. I was asked by the mayor and the sheriff of that city, men in whom their own people placed confidence and trust, to send troops there so that the streets would not run red with human blood. "No Apologies. "I sent them. I have no apologies to make for that. When the same man that asked me for protection tell me that the situation is safe and that the people of that community will not be terrorized by bands of thugs and criminals, gladly will I withdraw the militia, and not until then."

Replying to the labor committee's charges that he had failed to carry out his promise to support a free schoolbook measure, the governor declared that this was not part of his campaign promises in his 1920 race. "I have broken no promise in this matter," he said. "I have always been heartily in favor of free schoolbooks, if we had a way to pay for them. But we haven't and I favor no expenditure without sufficient revenue to take care of it."

The governor continued to ridicule Walker's platform, which he declared, not only does not contain projects beneficial to the state, "but a number of his advocacies actually are detrimental."

Stirring Reception. He said Walker hoped to profit by "the Watson row." He reiterated his charges of "pussy-footing and coast-riding."

The governor was met at Gainesville Monday morning by a large reception committee of Hall county citizens. A brass band in the town square boomed a stirring welcome. The committee was composed of Carl Davis, Gainesville, chairman; J. F. Pruitt, Lumpkin county representative; R. D. Mitchell, formerly mayor of Gainesville; D. T. Quillian, capitalist; Louis E. Wisdom, R. H. Baker, J. E. Robinson, Herman Delapierre, J. M. Brooks, R. T. Keen, J. W. A. Roper and R. T. Keen.

B. B. Gillard introduced the governor. Court was recessed by Judge W. B. Sloan to allow attendees—people in the city on court business to hear the speech.

Grady Hospital Officials Seek Mother of Baby

Many Atlanta Families Are Anxious to Adopt Little "Geneva."

BY H. H. WIMPEE. While officials of both the Grady hospital and the Georgia Baptist orphanage are seeking the mother who late Sunday night abandoned her month-old infant daughter on the lawn of the orphanage at East Point, little "Geneva," the black-eyed waif in question, gurgled and cooed in the infants' ward at Grady where she is being cared for by sympathetic nurses. Investigation by Superintendent Steve R. Johnson, of Grady, to establish identity of the child's mother, in order to obtain her sanction to the baby's legal adoption, has disclosed that the baby was born at Grady hospital, July 25 last. The mother gave her name as "Mrs. Fuller" without furnishing an address. This name is believed by Superintendent Johnson to have been fictitious.

A deluge of telephone calls was received, both at Grady hospital and at the Georgia Baptist orphanage, from persons desiring to adopt the child following the story Monday morning in The Constitution. A number of prominent Atlantans and also several persons from out of the city signified their desire to give little "Geneva" a home.

Before adoption papers can be legally executed the mother of the abandoned baby must be found, according to Mr. Johnson, and sign the papers approving the adoption. The child in the meantime will be kept in the infants' ward at the hospital, it was stated.

Records Are Consulted. In establishing the baby's identity thus far, Mr. Johnson consulted the records of the maternity ward. Complete description of newborn babies, including their foot and finger prints, are taken immediately following their birth in order to insure positively that each mother will obtain her own child.

This system of identification was adopted by the Grady hospital 18 months ago following the Garner-Pittman case in which Mrs. Garner claimed that her newborn child, which was born the same hour as Mrs. Pittman's, was given to the latter and the Pittman child given to her.

The case which reached the courts created unusual interest, the court finally deciding that no mistake was made in the children, and allowed Mrs. Pittman to keep the child, which she claimed was her own. The other child, which apparently neither of the mothers wanted, died while the case was being threshed out in the court.

"Inquiry about the hospital, together with the identification charts kept in the office here, have enabled me to trace the waif and I am certain that it was born at Grady hospital July 25," said Superintendent Johnson. "The mother of the baby gave her name as Mrs. Fuller, without any address, and at the time I suspected the name was fictitious."

"Never Question Cases." "We never question such cases, however, for the main thing is to render attention to the mother at such a crisis. Before we can legally permit adoption of such children, however, it is necessary that the mother, or father, sign the required papers which will enable the matter to stand in court."

Thomas Scoggins, manager of the orphanage, who found the child about 8 o'clock Sunday night, wrapped in a pink blanket on the lawn of the orphanage, stated he had learned Monday that shortly before the baby was found a man was seen stepping out of an automobile near the orphanage with a bundle in his arms, and walking towards the place where the infant was found.

The note pinned to the child's clothing read "Her name is Geneva. For God's sake, take care of her until I come back for her. Nobody else will help."

DIVIDEND PAID ON COCA-COLA

W. C. Bradley, Chairman of Board of Directors, Asserts Business in South Is Improving.

Declaration of the regular Coca-Cola dividend of $1 a share quarterly was announced after the close of yesterday's stock market, contradicting recent reports that the stock was to be placed on a $6 annual basis at this time.

W. C. Bradley, chairman of the board, announced after the meeting that earnings for the first half of 1922 indicated that results for the remainder of the year would be equally gratifying.

"In August," he continued, "our business was 10 per cent in excess of the corresponding month last year. Our sugar requirements have been taken care of up to October 1."

Mr. Bradley said that conditions in the south were improving and the outlook is favorable for further improvement.

PARADE TO OPEN FORDSON EXHIBIT

Many Interesting Floats Will Be Exhibited. Dealers in Atlanta Territory to Hold Meeting.

Headed by a squad of mounted police and Wedemeyer's Military band, the parade which will formally open the Southeastern Fordson Industrial exposition at Ponce de Leon and Penn avenues, will leave the corner of Ponce de Leon avenue and Peachtree at 11 o'clock this morning, on a line of march that will include the principal streets in the downtown district.

Two white tractors will be driven by Miss Lucy Hale, of Winans, Ga., Fordson expert, and Miss Eva Stinson, a viatrix, who also is an expert Fordson demonstrator. Miss Stinson's tractor will carry a printing press in operation by Fordson tractor power. Miss Hale's float will carry an exhibit of the Virginia-Carolina Cement company, consisting of "concrete products" and methods of demonstration.

Prize Car in Parade. The spick-and-span new Ford touring car model, to be given away by The Constitution to the winner of the widely advertised "Fordson contest," will occupy a place of prominence in the parade. It will be loaded on a specially constructed float, and will be drawn by a Fordson.

A silo filler will be operated by a Fordson tractor, from which confetti and paper ribbons will be thrown. Five hundred employees of the Ford mechanical and electrical force in Atlanta will form part of the procession.

The parade will end at the exposition grounds, where Mayor Key, of Atlanta, will deliver the formal address of welcome, just prior to the exposition being thrown open to the public.

Radio programs from Detroit and Cleveland are on the program for the afternoon. Educational pictures will be shown in the evening by the Ford Motor company. They will include views from all parts of the world. They will illustrate various stages in the construction of steel, glass and pottery products.

Prominent business men and state and city officials who have taken an active interest in the preparations for the exposition will be present by the Mayor Key after the formal address of welcome. Secretary of State McLenon and heads of local banking institutions and other business enterprises will be present at the opening exercises.

Ford Dealers to Meet. A meeting of all the Ford dealers in the Atlanta branch territory will be held in the evening. Nearly 250 dealers will assemble from points in Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee to definitely lay out plans for the further increase of use of the Fordson tractor.

To furnish free transportation to the exposition 25 Ford sedans will be placed in service between the grounds and the downtown district. Personally conducted tours through the grounds and the plant and return will be provided dealers.

The exposition will be open to the public from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. each day. No admission will be charged.

The line of march follows: From Georgian Terrace down Peachtree street to Broad street back to Peachtree street, thence to the exposition grounds at Ponce de Leon and Penn avenues.

Army Dirigible C-2 To Make First Flight Across the Continent

Belleville, Ill., August 28.—The first transcontinental airship flight ever attempted in the United States will be started by C-2 from Langley Field, Va., September 1. It was announced today at Scott field, the government lighter-than-air station here.

Stops will be made at Akron and Dayton, Ohio; St. Louis; Lawton, Okla.; San Antonio, Marfa and El Paso, Texas; Yuma, Ariz., and Los Angeles.

Bryan, while in Washington, called upon Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, advocating the latter's bill to take over emergency control of the mines. The question threatens to be either temporary federal operation or use of the United States army in a coercive manner, Bryan holds, "and I think the people would prefer the former of the two alternatives."

"While I am hoping that the strikes will be settled before the campaign really opens, anything that affects the public so violently cannot but become an issue," he said, "especially such important things as the coal and rail strikes."

New York, August 28.—Grasshoppers, rusing over Armenia from Persia have destroyed the fertile fields of Zangazour province, according to a statement issued by the Near East relief today. The statement said that one village collected 200 tons of grasshoppers, but was unable to save the crops. It is estimated that 42,000 persons, 16,000 of them children, face starvation as the result of the scourge.

Contest Editor's Mail Flooded With Entrants

Rules of Contest Now Seem To Be Thoroughly Understood

As the time nears for the close of distance telephone call for information, The Constitution's Fordson essay, word list contest, for which three prizes, including a Ford automobile, are to be awarded, the mail of the contest editor is becoming more and more congested with entries. It seems that practically everyone in the contest who does not already own a Ford is trying to win The Constitution's Ford.

Comparatively few requests for additional information or rules reached the contest editor Monday, showing, apparently, that the rules of the event have been pretty thoroughly explained and are now fully understood by the prospective entrants. Only one long

Germany Threatened With Sevelest Loss—Beer Supply Menaced

Berlin, August 27.—Having lost almost everything else, Germany seems about to lose her beer. The cabinet is framing regulations which will in effect almost prohibit the brewing of schnapps, Germany's popular beverage. As a conservation measure, the use of domestic sugar in brewing is to be forbidden. Importation of sugar is so expensive that it would boost the price of schnapps made with it practically 60 per cent.

Use of potatoes and grains is also to be restricted so that at best it would be only a weak, watery, war-time beer instead of the rich, potent beverage.

"Could Protect Himself." Rossman testified that on the night Martin was injured, he was called from the assembly hall of his organization into an ante-room where the elder Sailors awaited him. Sailors wanted, he said, the Klan to "take a stick and beat, then tar and feather, and afterwards run the man who was going with his daughter out of town."

W. H. Rossman, who stated that he was secretary of the Atlanta Ku Klux Klan, was the next witness. He gave his residence as 161 Lakeview avenue and his business address as the Haynes building. Rossman testified that on the night Martin was injured, he was called from the assembly hall of his organization into an ante-room where the elder Sailors awaited him. Sailors wanted, he said, the Klan to "take a stick and beat, then tar and feather, and afterwards run the man who was going with his daughter out of town."

Attorney Highsmith attempted to cross-examine Rossman. Despite objections by Attorney Wood, he attempted to force the witness to recount, verbatim, the testimony he had just given. After a verbal argument, he repeated his statement in substance. He was then dismissed.

Miss Sailors on Stand. Miss Hazel Sailors, wearing a light dress with a wide black hat, was the next witness. A buzz of conversation arose as she entered the courtroom from the office of the probation officer in the lobby outside. Many of those present stood up in an effort to see her as she walked up to the stand and took her seat.

"Where do you live?" Attorney Wood asked. "At 208 Means street." "With whom do you live there?" "With my father, mother, and brother, and other members of my family." "Does H. L. Simmons live there?" "Yes, sir. He boards with us." "Did you know Mr. J. L. Martin, of Mayville, Ga.?" "Yes, sir."

"Were any members of your family present then?" "Yes, sir. My mother, my brother, my sister-in-law and Mr. Simmons were sitting on the porch."

"How long after you returned home before you retired?" "About fifteen minutes." "How long after you retired was it before you went to sleep?" "About three hours."

"Did Martin come to your home for you?" "Yes, sir." "Have members of your family ever voiced any objections to your going with Martin?" "No, sir."

HOPE FOR BONUS VOTE LATE TODAY

Land Reclamation Feature of Measure Debated in the Senate Monday. Speeches Now Limited.

Washington, August 28.—Senate debate today on the soldiers' bonus bill centered largely on the land reclamation amendment offered by Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, but neither that nor any of the other amendments offered came to a vote.

The unanimous consent agreement limiting discussion on amendments to 20 minutes for each senator, will be operative tomorrow and leaders were hopeful that a final vote on the bill itself could be had before adjournment. In the discussion today Senator Wadsworth, of New York, and Sterling, of South Dakota, republicans voiced their opposition to the bonus, although Senator Sterling supported the reclamation project. Senators Nicholson, republican, Colorado and Heflin, democrat, Alabama, supported the bill, the former also arguing in favor of the McNary amendment. Senator Nicholson attacked the business men opposing the bonus, mentioning particularly the United States Steel Corporation and Standard Oil company.

Senator Wadsworth was particularly vigorous in his attack on the measure. He declared that the bonus could be financed only through taxes now or later and that the American people would be asked to bear the burden they could bear.

In presenting his reclamation amendment, Senator McNary told the senate that it afforded an opportunity for congress to do "a great thing in empire building" by reclaiming arid lands in the west and swamp and cut-over lands in the south and east. He suggested also that it would give opportunity to veterans desiring to get back to the land, to acquire homesteads with government aid and operate to maintain a much needed balance between the rural and urban population.

She did not mean leave the house, she said. Martin, she said, had gone up on Means street and into Boss avenue toward Marietta before she left the porch to go to her room. Attorney Wood attacked the deal of attention to the movements of Simmons and the younger Sailors, closely questioning her as to their actions after Martin left.

Mrs. W. C. Baxley was the next witness. She lives, she said, at 808 Marietta, which is within a few feet of the corner of Boss avenue. Being restless, she was half awake on the night in question, she testified, and saw a man in a light tan shirt come up from the direction of Means street between "10:35 and 10:45," followed by another man in a khaki-colored shirt. A few moments later, she said, she heard "muffled" noises at the corner, which was out of her line of vision.

A moment later, she continued, a man in a khaki-colored shirt walked back down the street. Just as he passed her line of vision, she testified, he looked back at some object on the ground at the corner. She arose and looked out under the arched light and saw a man lying about three feet from the curb and waving his left hand feebly. She then heard, she testified, a man dressed and went out to see what was the matter. He corroborated the latter part of her story.

Crowd Gathers. By the time Baxley reached the street corner had gathered and within a very few minutes both the police and ambulance arrived. This was the next time, according to the theory of the state, that the elder Sailors was seen. From the evidence, they were attempting to substantiate the theory that while the elder Sailors had gone to town to try and have the Ku Klux Klan attend to Martin, the younger Sailors and Simmons had committed the crime.

Simmons, who told the police that he witnessed the crime, is alleged to have stated that the man who struck the blow was left-handed. Baxley, who was in the crowd during Simmons' recital, testified that he made this statement. H. D. Lawson, call officer, testified to the same effect. Attorney Wood then attempted to show that the younger Sailors' right hand is deformed. Detective Pat Campbell, working with T. O. Sturdivant on the case, testified that one of the fingers is missing entirely and that the hand is much smaller than the left. Sailors kept the hand hidden during the trial and was not called to the stand.

Simmons was then called to the stand over the protests of Attorney Highsmith who asked Judge Callaway to instruct him that he did not have to testify to anything that would incriminate him. This was done and Simmons took the stand.

Said He Left Home. He did not remember being on the porch, he said, when Martin and Miss Sailors returned home from the theatre. He left home 15 minutes after the girl came home, he said, to go to the drug store to get some cigarettes. When he turned into Boss avenue, en route to Means street, he saw a man ahead of him, he said, but paid no particular attention until he saw another man steal up behind him. He saw the man strike him, he said, and saw the victim fall. When questioned closely by Attorney Wood he stated that he was not certain as to which hand the assailant used.

"I did not notice which way the assailant went," he said further. "He did not see the elder Sailors in the crowd which gathered after the crime had become generally known, Simmons testified.

"I went directly home, went to my room and went to bed." "Didn't you tell anyone about the crime?" he was asked. "No. I went to bed."

Murder Scene Diagram. Detective Campbell submitted a diagram of the scene about the murder, showing the Sailors' home, Boss avenue and Marietta, and the route traversed by Martin on his way to the car-line. Simmons was vague, he said, in describing the assailant to him. He was positive however, that Simmons said the man struck Martin with his left hand.

John N. Holder, chairman of the state highway commission and former speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, who attended the hearing with a delegation of Jackson county citizens, including G. H. Martin, brother of the dead man, testified as to the good character of Martin in his home community.

Pemberton Cooley, Jackson county attorney, aided Mr. Wood in examining the witnesses although he took no part in the questioning. Other friends of the Martin family present were Rev. J. J. Bennett; D. D. Barlow; S. T. Jackson; C. E. Jackson; T. C. Barber, cousin of the slain man; T. M. Donohoe, an uncle; R. C. No-berts; Jett Roberts; John C. Hall; W. F. Head; William Miller; L. W. Eberhardt; H. T. Lenderman; R. G. Lenderman; J. E. Jaylor; J. E. Jaylor, Jr., and D. H. Collier, sheriff of Jackson county.

In presenting a summary of the state's theory, Attorney Wood stated that they had proved the motive through the elder Sailors' attempt to have the Klan administer punishment to Martin. The circumstances strongly indicated, he said, that the younger Sailors and Simmons were responsible for the wounds which caused the death of Martin in Grady hospital last Friday morning.

afternoon at Cummings, Forsyth county, having more than 600 people from all sections to hear him. The governor did not deal with the labor question, but spoke very conservatively on the alleged report that Senator Thomas E. Watson was at the back of Mr. Walker in his race for the governorship.

dress was to the effect that if Mr. Watson was fighting Governor Hardwick, he would have picked a stronger man than Clifford Walker to make the race. The governor was cheered for more than a minute after he, in a few choice words, explained the alleged tactics employed by Mr. Walker in his efforts to "get on both the band wagons of the Watson and the anti-Watson factions."

Where Barnum Went Wrong

FOR twenty years or so we've all been hearing Barnum's classic remark—"The public likes to be fooled."

The public has always enjoyed this biting comment, because it came from America's best loved showman.

But probably many of us had our fingers crossed even as we nodded approval.

The past two years in the tire business has been a pretty good test of Barnum's famous saying.

If the public liked to be fooled, here was its heart's content. "Big Discounts" to the right. "Special Sales" to the left. "Bargains" on every corner.

Certainly no man who kept his eyes and ears open missed seeing the attempt to fool the public by drawing its attention away from the essentials of real value.

Why did car-owners refuse to lower their quality standards—why did more people than ever go to quality tires?

Especially U. S. Royal Cords, which they used more and more to measure the market when they wanted a test of value.

NUTTING PUTS BAN ON MUD-SLINGING

Outlining some of his activities in the service of Atlanta since he first became connected with the city's work as a member of the library commission, J. R. Nutting, candidate for mayor of Atlanta, addressed the luncheon of the Atlanta Builders' exchange at the chamber of commerce Monday.

Mr. Nutting said that he had not yet, and did not intend to, conduct a campaign of mud-slinging. "If the people of Atlanta do not want me to serve them as mayor on the face of my record of service to them, then I shall not seek to gain their votes by slinging mud at an opponent," he said. Mr. Nutting told of the work he had done to bring about the widening of Peachtree street. He also told of his part in the improvement of Spring and Ivy streets.

Another achievement he cited was the plan for providing bond issues to finance road improvements. The plan involved an amendment to the charter allowing the issue of bonds without having to resort to a election.

Most of Mr. Nutting's remarks were devoted to discussing the city's water supply in his capacity as chairman of the waterworks committee. He told of the contracts already given for improvements of the system amounting to $1,200,000, most of the contracts having been given to local firms. "We are now pumping from the river about 40,000,000 gallons daily. The gross receipts of the waterworks department in 1921 were $1,181,000, including $275,000 worth of water furnished the city departments. One interesting fact shown was that although the population of the city has just about doubled since the system was installed in 1885, the consumption of water has become ten times the figure for that year."

The committee in charge of the luncheon was composed of William Wilson and J. T. Braxwell. The meeting was presided over by W. H. George, president of the exchange. Visitors at the luncheon were E. V. Carrux, of Raleigh, N. C., and J. E. Suckey, of Greenville, S. C.

RUNNING ON RECORD, DECLARES BENTLEY

Ernest G. Bentley, candidate for reelection as member of the legislature from Fulton county, is making his race on the record he has made as a member of that body, he announced Monday. He reviews this record in his statement.

"There are three distinct classes of people in this county to whom I am appealing for support, capital, labor and the great class which belongs to neither," Mr. Bentley said.

In his statement Mr. Bentley declares he kept every campaign pledge he made in his former race. He pointed out he was joint author of the bill abolishing the fee system and that he succeeded in passing a bill in the house making the office of municipal court judge elective. He said the senate killed this bill.

Mr. Bentley also pointed out important amendments he succeeded in making to the Atlanta city charter bill which was passed by the house and senate. The particular charter amendment which Mr. Bentley made in committee and on the floor of the house was the one devoting 26 per cent of the total city income to the public schools.

MURRAY TURNED OVER TO FLORIDA OFFICER

Ed Murray, alias Ed Merfield, was turned over to Sheriff Lewis E. Allen, of Dade county, Florida, and left for Miami Monday night where he will face charges of "stealing automobiles," and violating the prohibition laws, according to the officer.

Murray, alias Merfield, waived the issuance of extradition papers, and predicted that he would be acquitted of the charges against him, declaring them to be "trumped up" and without justification. Merfield first came into the limelight when he and his wife, Mrs. Margie Merfield, were arrested on the complaint of W. G. B. Whitley, former federal prohibition officer, who accused them of burglarizing his apartment on Whitehall street and removing their own baggage, which he claimed he was holding for a past due board bill.

They were bound over to the grand jury, which returned "no bill" against the couple under the burglary charge, according to R. R. Jackson, attorney for the Merfields. However, an indictment charging the man with operating an automobile without the consent of the owner was returned by the grand jury. This grew out of a charge by Whitley that Merfield had stolen Whitley's automobile.

AUTO INJURES GIRL AND BREAKS WINDOW

After knocking down and seriously injuring Hazel Green, negro girl, of Ed Logan street, Monday morning, an automobile driven by another negro girl, Ruth Kenon, smashed into the plate glass window of the McDonald & Stribling company's store at Pryor and Decatur streets, wrecking the car. The injured negro was carried to the Grady hospital where surgeons declared that she probably was hurt internally. The driver of the machine was arrested by Patrolman T. J. Smith.

ALLEGED NEGRO THIEF HELD IN $3,000 BOND

Robert Brown, alleged negro burglar, who viciously fought Officer W. A. McKinney, when he arrested him in the home of O. R. Strauss, 42 Fairview road was Monday morning, held for grand jury under $3,000 bond by Recorder Pro-Ten A. L. Calloway.

When brought into court the negro was wearing heavy bandages about his head where he was beaten by the "billy" of Officer McKinney. The officer appeared with a bandaged hand and scratches about the face and head.

TAXI DRIVER REPORTS THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE

Henry Blanton, a taxi driver, reported Monday morning to the police that he was engaged by an unidentified white man to drive him to Cooper and Richardson streets.

On reaching the point of destination, he claims he was decoyed from the auto by the passenger, who slipped under the steering wheel and applied the gas freely, making his escape.

City Detectives George E. Holley and E. D. Meek, who were detailed to investigate, were furnished a description of the man by Blanton.

Traffic Violation Laid to H. H. Jones; Not Burglar Suspect

H. H. Jones, 25, of 114 Plum street, Monday afternoon denied that he had been arrested as a suspect in a burglary case by Officer L. E. Jackson Sunday, as was stated in Monday's issue of The Constitution.

Mr. Jones, who is a starter for the Yellow Cab company, at the union station, had a case made against him by Officer L. E. Jackson for violating the traffic law, and was given a copy of charges.

The mistake occurred at police station where a charge of burglary was erroneously placed opposite his name on the police blotter.

Philadelphia, August 28.—Max Zeitler, maker of the present Great Seal of the United States and a widely known steel engraver, died in a hospital yesterday. He was 68 years old.

ABANDONING WIFE AND HIS CHILDREN LAID TO PHYSICIAN

Dr. George E. Bowdon, 28, who has been employed at a local hospital for the past four or five months as intern, Monday was arrested under a bench warrant from Wilmington, N. C., charging him with abandoning his wife and minor children, according to City Detectives S. A. Smith and J. L. Whitley, who made the arrest.

Late Monday afternoon Dr. Bowdon made the request of Acting Police Chief A. Lamar Poole that an Atlanta officer be allowed to take him to the North Carolina city in order to expedite his release on bond. He left Atlanta in the charge of Officer M. B. Johnson.

Dr. Bowdon told the city detectives that he had been separated from his wife for more than a year and that he thought their differences were settled. About three months ago, it is said, he filed suit for a divorce in the Fulton county superior court; a copy of which was served upon his wife, it is said.

POSTAL BUILDING PROJECT IS WEAK

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, August 28.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire).—The proposal of Postmaster-General Work for government ownership of postoffice buildings in every city and town in the United States where none now is owned will not be followed by the enactment of proper legislation for that purpose any time soon, it was indicated today. Under the proposal a large number of federal post-office buildings would be constructed in Georgia.

Questioned on the subject, Senator Townsend, republican of Michigan, and chairman of the postoffice and postroads committee, stated that he deemed the nation's finances not in proper condition to invoke the expenditure for the present. As legislation to call out the bill would have come through the Michigan senator's committee, this is taken to mean that no action will be taken in that direction soon.

Senator Townsend, however, did not express himself as against the proposal, which was approved by President Harding and which is designed to save the government approximately $500,000,000 within the next ten years, it is said. He stated

Rotarians From 17 Cities To Attend Atlanta Meeting

Acceptances of the invitations recently sent out by President "Bill" Brownlee of the Atlanta Rotary club have been coming in in such great numbers that the entertainment committee, headed by Eugene Harrington, is having to work manfully to assure entertainment for the great number of Rotarians who will come in from 17 cities of Georgia on September 8, a. nounced Secretary Wayne Kell, of the club, Monday.

The big inter-city meet of the Rotarians is headed toward success, stated Mr. Kell, for the enthusiasm of the local members is growing stronger every day as additional acceptances are received. There will be a number of speakers high in the Rotary circles, including International President Raymond Havens, of Kansas City; Vice President John A. Turner, of Tampa; Secretary Chesley R. Perry, of Chicago; and Joseph Turner, of Roanoke, chairman of the international committee on education, who is also president of Hollins college.

Fred Carberry, of Milwaukee, renowned in Rotary circles as a master of group singing, will take a prominent part in the program. In addition, to these, Porter Pierpont, of Savannah, governor of the Rotary district comprising Florida and Georgia, will take part in the big meet.

The inter-city meet has been held in Atlanta for the past three years, their objective being to bring Georgia cities to a closer point of harmony.

RAYMOND W. HAVENS, International Rotary President.

STATES ASSOCIATION PLAN IS SUBMITTED

Grenoble, France, August 28.—(By The Associated Press).—A new plan for a "world association of states" to link together "the League of Nations, the Pan-American Union and those governments which are members of neither," was submitted today to the institute of international law at its meeting here by Prof. Alejandro Alvarez, of Chile.

The plan was presented in the form of a report drafted by Prof. Alvarez for the 27th commission of the institute which approved it at an executive session held in Paris from July 31 to August 3.

The new association would be superimposed upon the present league and Pan-American union and would seek to enforce a regional and continental group rather than attempt to replace them entirely. It is designed to meet the American objection to the league of nations with the primary purpose of co-ordinating the states of the world—not establishing a superstate.

Inadequacy of League.

The inadequacy of the present league as a whole grouping was frankly recognized and it was deemed wisely to let it remain as a sort of European organization. The insufficiency of the league was declared to be based largely upon the attitude of the United States, together with the absence of Germany and Russia.

Other objections were against the league were that it limits the sovereignty of its member state, makes admission and withdrawal too difficult and takes a too exclusively European view of things.

While the league has many merits, its operation, the report finds, has tended rather to separate than to unite Europe and American closer together. Europe, it is held, needs an international organization more than America does, for Europe is less stable politically and there are more rivalries and ambitions.

World Organization.

The convention, which consists of 18 articles, creates a world association of states which has as its mission to establish liaison between the league of nations, the Pan-American union and the states belonging to none of these groups.

"The association," it says, "will consider questions of world or continental interest. It will have as its duties, notably, to watch over the general interests of humanity, take measures to eliminate the cause of war, initiate adequate methods for the pacific settlement of conflicts between states, strengthen bonds of all sorts between countries, promote universal co-operation and accomplish gradual codification of international law. The association will act not only

SOUTH CAROLINIANS CAST BALLOTS TODAY

Greenville, S. C., August 28.—With Cole L. Blaise seeking a third term as governor, and 26 other candidates in the race for state offices, the South Carolina democratic primary election will be held tomorrow. For the first time women will participate in a state-wide primary, there being approximately 74,000 women qualified by enrollment to vote in the primary tomorrow. The total enrollment in the state is 226,581 and the heaviest vote in the history of primaries in South Carolina is expected.

Two women candidates are in the field for state office. Mrs. Beatie Rogers Drake, of Marlboro, and Mrs. E. Barton Wallace, of Richland, are two of the five opponents of Superintendent of Education John E. Swearingin, who has served in the office which he holds 14 years.

In addition to Cole L. Blaise there are five other candidates for governor, they being T. G. McLeod, George K. Laney, William Coleman, J. J. Cantel and John T. Duncan.

Lines Tightly Drawn.

Unlike most campaigns in South Carolina, the campaign which closed in Spartanburg last Friday was marked by few signs of factionalism. The lines appear to be tightly drawn, however, between the Blaise and the anti-Blaise forces in the race for governor.

In four of the seven congressional districts the present congressmen are opposed for re-nomination. In the first district, Congressman W. F. Logan is opposed by L. S. Hutto and James B. Morrison. Congressman Fred H. Dominick, of the third district, has two opponents, Ed P. McCravy and Sam G. Sherard. In the sixth district, the incumbent, Philip H. Stoll, is opposed by W. H. Harrington and J. F. Stevenson. Two candidates, Andrew J. Bethea and John J. McMahon, are in the field against Congressman H. P. Fulmer in the seventh district.

Congressman James F. Byrnes of the second district, Congressman John J. McSwain, of the fourth district, and Congressman W. F. Stevenson, of the fifth district, are all unopposed.

Charges Waste.

Former Governor Blaise has sought nomination for a third term as governor on a platform in which he alleges that the administrations of Governors Richard I. Manning and Robert A. Cooper "bankrupted the state," that useless offices and unnecessary expenditures in government were responsible for high taxes and that the administrations of the two governors succeeding him in office were responsible for the crime existing in the state.

Thomas G. McLeod and George K. Laney, the other two leading candidates for office, presented platforms in which they favored tax reform, liberal support of education and rigid enforcement of the laws. John T. Duncan, another of the gubernatorial candidates, throughout the campaign directed attacks at former Governor Blaise, claiming the latter had the support of the republican party in attempting to split the democratic vote in South Carolina and deliver his following into the republican party.

WASHINGTON INTERESTED

Washington, August 28.—The plan for a world association of states to link together the league of nations, the Pan-American union and those governments which are members of neither, as submitted by Professor Alvarez, of Chile, to the institute of international law at Grenoble, France, aroused keen interest in official circles here. Generally it was considered that the plan provided some remedies for defects in the league of nations and of other proposed associations, but it was felt that because of its scope some practical difficulties might be encountered.

Officials at the state department would not comment on the proposition, explaining that they had had no previous knowledge of it. It was said, however, that the position of the United States with reference to the league of nations had remained unchanged. In the absence of Dr. L. S. Howe, director-general officials at the Pan-American union likewise refrained from expressing an opinion.

RAILWAY STRIKERS DID NOT ATTACK HIM, SAYS GINN

That the bullet which struck L. H. Ginn, 50 years old, of Tate, Ga., from a would-be highwayman's pistol at midnight Sunday on Capitol square near Washington did not penetrate his brain and cause death was considered miraculous by physicians Monday following an X-ray examination at Grady hospital where the wounded man was taken.

Ginn, who was on his way to the home of relatives, was encountered by an unidentified white man armed with a pistol as he crossed through the Capitol grounds, and ordered to "hand out your money." Instead of complying with the demand, Ginn declared he struck at the highwayman and was instantly struck on the forehead with the pistol in the assailant's hand and was then shot, the bullet striking his face just above the right eye and lodging over his left eye. After he fell to the ground the man searched his pockets but did not take his money.

Ginn denied that he was attacked by railway strikers, as was advanced by local officers investigating the attack. He stated that he was not in any way involved in the strike, but was known to a large number of the railway employees now out on strike. He had been employed until recently by the Tate Marble company, at Tate, Ga., he stated.

SIX-YEAR-OLD GIRL AWARDED TO MOTHER

Judge John D. Humphries, of the Fulton superior court, issued a writ Monday awarding custody of a six-year-old daughter to Mrs. Nettie Holbrook, who separated from her husband, C. H. Holbrook July 1. The writ was issued after the little girl had asked the judge that she be allowed to remain with her mother.

It was stated that the Holbrooks separated with an agreement that the eight-year-old son should be kept by the father and the six-year-old daughter by the mother. Mrs. Holbrook claimed her husband violated this agreement and sought custody of the child.

OFFICERS RECOVER STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

City Detectives E. D. Meek and George E. Holley Monday recovered an automobile said to have been stolen from John Dodson, at Fairburn. The machine was found in a garage on Walker street. Clues as to the identity of the thief were obtained by the detectives, and a dragnet has been spread for his arrest.

Joel Hurt Urges Change in Plans For New Viaduct

That the present plans of the Spring street viaduct call for an elevation 11 feet higher than the Forsyth street bridge and should be modified to conform with other structures crossing the railway tracks, was the assertion Monday of Joel Hurt, prominent Atlanta capitalist and civic leader, in a statement to the bridge committee of the bond commission.

Mr. Hurt also asserted that the floor elevation of the present viaduct over Forsyth street was approximately five feet higher than was necessary. He urged lowering of this bridge in the event plans to close the Forsyth street underpass materialize.

"If the Spring street viaduct is constructed according to present plans," Mr. Hurt declared, "the floor will be 11 feet higher than the floor of the Forsyth street viaduct and will be a permanent eye sore as well as a great obstruction to traffic because of its excessive elevation. It will involve the expenditure of millions of unnecessary horsepower."

"For every ton that passes over the Forsyth street viaduct three horsepower of excess energy must be expended. With more than 1,000 vehicles per day crossing the viaduct it is easily seen that the waste of horsepower runs into the thousands daily."

The bridge committee of the bond commission will discuss the plans at its next meeting, according to W. G. Cooper, chairman.

"SAFETY FIRST" MEETING CALLED TUESDAY NIGHT

Letters have been sent out by Roy LeCraw, president of the junior chamber of commerce, to all the members who have been selected to take part in the safety first week to be held Tuesday night, at 7:30 o'clock in the chamber assembly hall.

The safety first week begins with September 4 and continues through September 10. Other civic clubs of the city are planning to aid in the campaign.

STATE VOCATIONAL EDUCATION LEADER TO BE APPOINTED

Important business relating to the work of the ensuing year will be considered at a meeting of the state board of vocational education which will be held Tuesday morning in the office of Dr. M. M. Parks, state school commissioner. The work of the board is to coordinate the vocational education of the state.

Members of the board are Dr. David C. Barrow, chairman; W. C. Verreen, Moultrie, vice chairman; Judge Max McKee, of McKeen; Wilbur Trimble, of Trimble, Ga.; Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, and Dr. M. M. Parks, state school commissioner.

Let's From Sutton:

Mr. Sutton's letter follows: To the business men of Atlanta: So cordial has been the reception of the idea of education week by the business men of Atlanta, and so helpful have been their cooperation, that I really feel that I am due a personal letter of appreciation to each and every one. That is impossible just at this moment. I take this opportunity to write my appreciation and to ask your continued cooperation in the efforts to secure the attendance of all the children of school age in school during the coming year.

In the business offices in Atlanta and in many of our factories and industrial plants there are a large number of boys and girls, whose families are well able to send them to school. Many of these boys and girls have dropped out of school simply because they have grown a little tired. They do not realize that they are losing the great opportunity of their life for advancement and for usefulness. They are also filling positions that many people who are without jobs would be glad to fill. There is a great economic principle back of our "Go to School" movement, and one that I believe the business men of the city will realize.

Read Word of Encouragement. If these boys and girls, young men and young women, whose families are able to send them to school, were to take their places in our educational institutions, they would thus provide positions for many of those who are unemployed. At the same time, they would be preparing themselves for greater business opportunities and for a larger field of usefulness in life. Many of them need just a word of encouragement from the boss or the man higher up, in order to go back to school. I am addressing the business men of the city, asking them if they will not encourage these boys and girls who are able to attend school, to go back to high school, finish their high school education, and, if possible, continue in college. Just a slap on the shoulder and a word of encouragement from the man whom the boy admires will bring him to his senses, and will mean more than a long lecture from some one who is trying to get the boy to finish school. It is the business man's opportunity to help in a great movement. I sincerely trust that every man who has an office boy, or an office girl, or an employee of any kind, who should have further training, will simply give this young man or young woman a word of encouragement concerning school. If it is impossible for the young man or woman to attend day school, please be sure to mention to him or her the fact that we have night schools and the opportunity school, which he or she may attend. Just a word from the business man of Atlanta means a great deal in our great educational program.

We are striving to make the schools of Atlanta minister to Atlanta's growth and development in every particular. In the business world, in the industrial world, and in the social and moral life of the city. We ask your hearty cooperation that we may enlist all the people of Atlanta who should be in school in some one of our educational institutions.

Yours for the education of Atlanta, WILLIAM A. SUTTON, Superintendent of Schools.

Ready-to-Wear To Occupy Second Floor at Blauer's

Moving day season, September 1, is being observed by Blauer's, the Whitehall street ready-to-wear store. To better handle the increased volume of business the ready-to-wear section will be moved to larger quarters on the second floor of the building at 43-45 Whitehall street.

The entire main floor will be used for millinery, making it among the largest and finest millinery departments in Atlanta.

J. A. Kessler, general manager, in a statement says this is only part of the extensive alterations under way to make Blauer's one of the leading women's wear stores in Atlanta, as the stores of this company are in the east.

Mr. Kessler anticipates a wonderful season this fall, and with the increased space and more attractively fitted interior, intends to make Blauer's a habit with the women of Atlanta.

Burton Miller, formerly of Chicago, will be in charge of the millinery department.

MAYOR KEY ISSUES STATEMENT TO VOTERS

This section of the country is passing through one of the greatest crises in its history and it needs representation in Washington who will work toward solving its problems, according to a statement issued Monday by Mayor Key stated he would endeavor to get over the district as much as possible but the exacting duties of his office would make it impossible to visit all the voting sections.

Following is his statement: As far as it is possible, I will meet the voters of the district and discuss with them the issues of the campaign for congress, but the exacting duties of my present office as mayor of the city of Atlanta, give me but little time and opportunity. The most important and important district in the south from a financial, commercial, business and industrial standpoint should be represented by some one who is in close touch with its affairs, has demonstrated the ability to grasp and solve the serious economic problems presented, who has shown some capacity to deal with governmental questions, who understands the difficulties under which the business man and the worker are striving to make progress against obstacles and handicaps among the people he assumes to represent. Believing that in some degree I can fairly claim to measure up to the duties and responsibilities of this important office, I indicate in no harsh criticism of the incumbent. He is talented in many ways, but his talents do not lie in the line of service to his constituency in ways where that service is most needed.

This section of the country is passing through a critical and severe economic crisis through which it has passed since the civil war. The outlook is gloomy and foreboding everywhere, and under the present order of things no relief is in sight. We need a radical and drastic change in practical solutions to practical problems. Unless we can help industry upon a basis where it can successfully function on full time, industry and employment will cease. I will be glad to serve along those and all other helpful lines. I have shown some ability here to bring things to pass. I believe that I can command respect and attention in Washington and will be grateful for an opportunity to render the best service of which I am capable.

DeMolay Degree To Be Conferred Tonight at Temple

Atlanta chapter, Order of DeMolay for Boys, will confer the DeMolay degree this evening at 7:45 o'clock on a class of 25 boys, ranging in ages from 16 to 21 years, the ceremony taking place in the Scottish Rite apartments of Masonic Temple.

Added interest is given to this event by the fact that the chapter has just received its new outfit of robes, and this will be the first appearance of the team in the robes in Atlanta. The degree staff of the Atlanta chapter, together with a number of members, grand deputy for the state of Georgia, Forrest Adair, and several members of the advisory council went to Columbus, Ga., Saturday where a chapter was instituted, officers installed, and the charter members initiated for the Columbus chapter. Grand Deputy Adair has announced that several other chapters are soon to be instituted in Georgia and the degree staff of Atlanta chapter will probably be called upon to officiate at the institution of many of these new lodges.

The degree work Tuesday night will be featured by the presence of a large number of Master Masons, who are showing increased interest in this wonderful secret order that is designed to make useful citizens of the boys of the coming generation. The meeting is open to qualified Master Masons, and all are invited to be present. Applications for the next class are now being received by the secretary of application blanks may be secured at the office of the secretary of the Scottish Rite in Masonic Temple. The initiation fee is $5 and the annual dues $3.

FAMILY NEAR DEATH AS TRAIN HITS CAR

Mrs. A. J. Hammontree Seriously Injured and Husband and Two Children Are Bruised.

Jasper, Ga., August 28—(Special.) Mrs. A. J. Hammontree is making an uphill battle for life in an Atlanta hospital, and her husband and children are being treated at their home here for painful bruises as the results of an accident in which their automobile was struck by a Louisville and Nashville passenger train about 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning on a grade crossing in the northern end of Jasper.

The Hammontrees, who are widely known in this community, reside about four miles south of Jasper. They were driving to church services and were prevented from seeing the approaching train by a sharp curve. The warning of the engineer's whistle preceded by only an instant the crash that threw the occupants of the car several feet into the air.

Residents of the neighborhood took Mr. Hammontree and the children to the home of the family, but the wife's injuries were found to be so serious she was rushed to Atlanta for treatment.

Injured members of the family here were improving today.

EXTENSION GRANTED FOR RE-EXPORT GOODS

A further extension to September 30 for the period of re-export of undelivered goods in Cuban ports has been granted by a presidential decree, not yet published, according to a cable dispatch received at the department of commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioner C. A. Livengood, of Havana, announced Rusk C. Giesinger, manager of the South Atlantic office of the bureau of commerce Monday.

The decree does not mention consumption goods, but these goods are now permitted to be re-exported through conversion into deposit mercantile entries, entered for re-exportation, continues the announcement.

MEDICATED SMOKE DRIVES OUT CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist, is the originator of a certain combination of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries to be smoked in a pipe or ready prepared cigarette which is meeting with unusual success in catarrhal troubles. As the disease is carried into the head, nose and throat with the air you breathe, so the anti-septic healing vapor of his remedy is carried with the breath directly to the affected parts.

This simple, practical method applies to the medicine where the catarrhes, "ointments," etc., cannot possibly go. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless, containing no cubes, tobacco or habit-forming drugs. It is pleasant and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or if subject to frequent colds, you should try this remedy. For sale by all druggists. If you desire proof of its beneficial and pleasant effect, send ten cents (coin or stamps) to The Blosser Co., 28 D.L. Atlanta, Ga., for a trial package.—(adv.)

OZBURN-ABSTON CO. HAS BIG SHOW EXHIBIT

Ozburn-Abston company, one of the leading automotive equipment jobbers in the southeast, has equipped a complete model Ford service station for the inspection of visiting Ford dealers and their service men, who will attend the Southeastern Industrial Tractor exhibition here this week. The exhibit of the Ozburn-Abston company is given a very conspicuous position in the exhibition grounds on Ponce de Leon avenue, between Penn and Bedford place.

Only such equipment as is best fitted for Ford and Fordson service stations is shown in this exhibit, according to E. H. Baughman, who is vice president and general manager of the Ozburn-Abston company, and president of the Southeastern Automotive Equipment Jobbers' association. Lee Baughman, who has charge of the garage equipment department of this company, and several of the territory salesmen, will be in attendance at the booth, throughout the entire exhibition, to explain the uses and advantages of the various units on display.

Lee is one of the most competent garage equipment men in the entire Atlanta territory, and he is particularly proud of the exhibit which he has arranged. He modestly admits carrying the largest stock of garage equipment in the southeast, and is equally confident that his stock comprises the most efficient and desirable equipment for Ford and Fordson dealers.

Factory Men at Booth.
In addition to Mr. Baughman, and his corps of road men who will be at the booth, several factory men, whose products are on exhibition have already arrived to take up their post at the Ozburn-Abston booth at this big tractor exhibition.

H. O. Maininger, general sales manager, and George McSweeney, special representative of the Whitehead & Kales Co., will be at the booth to explain the uses and advantages of Whitehead & Kales wheels and trailers, for use with the Fordson tractor.
J. J. Champion, an executive of the Champion Manufacturing company, will tell the story of the Champion cylinder reborer tool for Ford and Fordson motors. This is a new line with the Ozburn-Abston company, but according to Mr. Baughman, its accuracy, fool proofness and low cost, it will probably be one of their best sellers.

Guy Cooper, an official of the Hempy-Cooper Manufacturing company, will take off his coat and of official dignity long enough to re-habit and re-bore the main cylinders of a Ford motor, which when done with his little outfit, takes only ten or twelve minutes for the complete operation. The habbit is applied to the cold bearing and then the three bearings are bored and finished with a new jack-knife type drill operated with an ordinary electric drill.

H. H. Griffith, special representative of the David Lupton's Sons company, will have something new to show. It is a counter show case, specially designed for parts departments and accessory stores. It is built in units, has glass fronts, and ends of either glass or steel. The top is of specially constructed linoleum, and the like may be placed on top for display, with safety.
In addition to this new article, Mr. Griffith will show the Ford and Fordson parts bins, tire, wheel and spring racks.

Dixie Feed Mill Shown At Big Southeastern Fordson Tractor Show

The Leitz Dixie feed mill is one of the "down on the farm" items which will greet visitors at the Southeastern Fordson Tractor exhibition here this week.
The King Implement company, exclusive distributors for this mill, claim that by the use of this machine in preparing feed for feeding to stock its food value is increased 40 per cent, and that its use will greatly reduce the cost of production of food and the expense of stock feeding.

Mowers and Feed Mill To Be Shown at Big Tractor Exhibition

The Southern Machinery company will show a Hunsner type Dixie feed mill in operation at the Southeastern Fordson Industrial Tractor exhibition here this week, along with other items, including a new two-speed moving machine for use with tractors.
This company is one of the many local firms having booths at the big tractor show being held by the Ford Motor company and their dealers.

opens at 11 o'clock this morning with an imposing parade through the principal business streets of Atlanta.

Rules of Contest.
The rules of the contest and additional information of interest to contestants follow:

Prize will be awarded for the best lists of words formed from the letters in the name "Fordson Tractor" and the best essays on the subject, "The Value of the Fordson Tractor in Industry and Agriculture."
A board of judges, to be named by The Constitution, will make the lists of words and the essays submitted and, after careful consideration, will grade the contestants on a basis of 100 points with 60 points allowed for the longest list of common, singular, English nouns and 40 points allowed for the best essay, all lists and essays to be graded on the basis of 10 and 10. Essays must not be more than 200 words in length.

The contest opened Thursday and closes at noon Wednesday, August 30. The lists and essays must reach The Constitution not later than 12 m., Wednesday, August 30. This gives contestants just one week to work.
The contest is open to every man, woman and child in the United States except employees of The Atlanta Constitution, of the Ford Motor company, authorized Ford dealers, and their families.

Each contestant will be allowed to submit but one answer, although different members of the family may send one answer each.

Only one side of the paper may be used in writing lists of words and essays. The words made from the letters in "Fordson Tractor" should be written in columns and each word numbered as:

No. 1, Ford.
No. 2, Son.
No. 3, Tractor.
No. 4, Car.

Each letter in the two words may be used as many times as needed, but no letters not found in the two words may be used.
List of Prizes.
First Prize—Standard, new model Ford touring car, with one-man top, and standard windshield, and equipped with starter, demountable rims and a "Low-ery Free Wheel" safety device.

Second Prize—One Badger "Light Master" spring bar bumper, to fit car of winner. Badger bumpers are distributed by the Ozburn-Abston company, and sold by leading dealers.

Third Prize—One Spartan electric horn, to fit car of winner. Spartan horns are distributed by the Alexander-Seward company and sold by leading dealers.

In event of a tie each contestant will receive the full amount of prize tied for.

Announced by Radio.
The list of prize winners will be announced over WGM, The Constitution's radio broadcasting station, at 9 p. m., Sunday, August 31, simultaneously with its appearance on the first post in the first edition of the Friday Constitution.

The radio receiving set of the Capital Electric company will pick up the announcement from WGM, at the Fordson Industrial Tractor exposition grounds on Ponce de Leon avenue, between Penn and Bedford place.

The prizes will be distributed at The Constitution's booth at the exposition, if winners are present. If winners are not present, they will be delivered upon demand at The Constitution office any time after noon, Friday, September 1.

The prizes will be given on the Fordson Industrial Tractor show, on Ponce de Leon avenue, between Penn and Bedford place, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Winner of the bumper or electric horn will be given the proper size to fit his car, or in event winner does not own a car a size may be selected to fit the car of anyone he may name.

Answers should be addressed as follows:

POLICE SEEKING "BLONDE ACTRESS" IN MOVIE SLAYING

New York, August 28.—The fate of George F. Cline, location director of a motion picture concern who is held in connection with the fatal shooting of Jack Bergen, movie actor, may be decided by the story told by a pretty young blonde film actress who is said to have been at the Cline home the night of the slaying.
This 21-year-old beauty, whose identity is being kept secret, is said to have been at Saranac Lake, N. Y., when Bergen is alleged to have attacked Mrs. Cline. Police believe Cline summoned her to his home at Edgewater, N. J., to confront Bergen in case he attempted to deny intimacy with Mrs. Cline. Whether the blonde actress actually witnessed the fatal shooting of Bergen or only heard the shots from another room is unknown.

AUTOMOBILE WRECKED AND WOMAN IS HURT

An automobile accident in which one person, Miss Mary Walton, was slightly injured, occurred shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night on Peachtree road, according to reports to police. The machine was struck by a street car and demolished, it was stated.
Miss Walton was taken to the Davis-Fischer sanatorium where her injuries, consisting of a slight cut on the neck, was attended and she was later taken to her home. No one else was injured.

BROTHERS KILLED IN MYSTERY CLASH

Augusta, Ga., August 28.—(Special.)—Dan and Baxley Latimore, young white men, were shot and instantly killed at Camak, 47 miles west of here, just after midnight Monday morning, by W. T. Hall, a guard in the yards of the Georgia railroad.
Hall left the bodies on a trestle where they fell, according to Sheriff Hogan, of Warrenton, and went to Warrenton to surrender. Dan Latimore, who is survived by a widow and two small children, lived at Camak and was employed as a lineman for the Postal Telegraph company. Baxley Latimore, who also had a family, had been visiting his brother here.

W. T. Hall is a son of John T. Hall, of Norwood, Ga. He has been employed in the railroad yards here as a guard for some time. Hall told Sheriff Hogan that he accosted the men in the railroad yards and that they asked him to direct them to the main line, saying they wanted to go to Atlanta.

After carrying them to the main line track, according to Hall, they told the sheriff, the men threatened him, one of them drawing a gun, he declared.

Hall said he fired twice, once at each man, and both fell. He left the scene at once.

Sterling Farr, engine watchman who was on duty near the station, said he heard two shots about midnight, but as there had been much shooting in this vicinity of late, he did not pay serious attention to the reports, though he walked up through the yard to the trestle, accompanied by the station agent, and they found the two bodies, one of which was sprawled directly across the track, while the other lay near the rail. A freight train from Macon was due at that time and the agent flagged it before it reached the trestle.

Sheriff Hogan arrived in a short while and had the bodies moved to the railway office. The sheriff said he found a pistol clutched in the hand of one of the dead men.

The belief here is that the men were going hunting, as Dan Latimore is said to have made inquiries about a dog earlier in the night.

Dan Latimore was 30 years old and his brother was 33. Baxley Latimore lived at Hickory Grove, S. C., where he was employed by a construction company.

REINHARDT ALUMNI MEET AT GRANT PARK

Ramsey C. Sharpe, president of Reinhardt college, outlined the program for the school year of the college, which begins September 5, before the annual meeting and picnic of the local Reinhardt college students and alumni at Grant park Saturday.

The picnicers gathered at about 7 o'clock, and spread an elaborate basket lunch. After Dr. Sharpe's speech, the following alumni spoke: A. W. White, Jesse B. Ragsdale and H. C. Cantrell.

Officers for the new year are Jesse B. Ragsdale, president, and Miss Jeanette Morris, secretary. Approximately sixty were present.

In 1832 the Mississippi was traced to its source.

MAYOR KEY ADDRESSES COLLEGE PARK VOTERS

Mayor Key spoke to an audience of more than 200 people at the "Key-for-Congress" rally at College Park Monday night, declaring that the district deserved a representative in congress who is more familiar with its needs, and who understands it better.
"I have no desire to throw campaign bricks at anyone. But I feel that this great district has a right to a representative in the halls of congress who is better fitted to represent it by reason of understanding the needs of the district. I have served the city of Atlanta as mayor for four years, and I point to the strides this city has made during that time as proof of my familiarity with the questions at hand. I have been in position as no other man to study the needs of the fifth district."

"I have always stood for the Muscle Shoals development, because I think it will be the greatest benefit that can come to the farmer of Georgia at this time. I have also been interested in the harnessing of the giant water power that is going to waste at our very doors, and promise the people of this district that I shall work for that development. We have one of the richest states in the union in natural resources, but we are not realizing a decent fraction of what it might mean to us. I have always stood for the development of these resources, and have no idea of ever abandoning my record."

The meeting was held in the open air outside the J. O. U. A. M. hall, with J. M. Dobbs presiding. Mayor Key spoke from an automobile.

Federal Tax Receipts Fall $46,000,000 During Month of July

Washington, August 28.—Governorment tax receipts for July fell off by more than $46,000,000 as compared with the same month last year, according to the statement of classified collections issued today by the internal revenue bureau. For the month, tax collections totalled $106,886,779 as against $153,343,217 during July 1921.

Income and profit taxes amounting to $29,743,000 during the month showed a decrease of $9,848,000 compared with July a year ago, while estate taxes aggregating $4,071,000 declined by $10,275,000.

Taxes on distilled spirits aggregating $2,684,000 for the month declined by $2,611,000 against July, 1921; miscellaneous taxes, such as transportation and amusements, amounting to $43,443,000, fell off by $27,177,000, while tobacco taxes aggregating $26,080,000 reflected an increase of $3,772,000 as against the same month last year.

RELIEF PROMISED GEORGIA OIL MILLS

They stated some of the plants are operating on reserve supplies of coal and that much hardship will come if the plants are forced to close down.

North Georgia Situation Better.
The north Georgia situation is better, according to the statement issued by the Georgia Railway and Power company, which is as follows:

"Thanks to an abundance of water power, paralysis or even a serious crippling of industry in north Georgia as the result of coal shortage or a continuance of the railroad strike is out of the question, so long as raw material for manufacture can be secured. North Georgia also is particularly fortunate in having large quantities of material for manufacture on hand."

"Practically 2,750 manufacturing enterprises in north Georgia operate on electric power generated by water, and are, therefore, not dependent on coal, according to the statement. This does not include thousands of stores, office buildings and homes."

"Fifty-two municipalities are using the company's water power for lighting and other purposes and, therefore, would continue to receive their electric current, despite any crisis that might arise. Of these, 30 are towns buying current at wholesale and retailing it to their consumers, the other 13 municipalities being supplied retail by the company. The company supplies direct 125 wholesale power customers and 2,145 retail power customers, in addition to those supplied by the various municipalities served by the company."

"The company now has in storage at Burton, Lakemont and Tallulah enough water to serve all its customers for approximately 15 days even if there should be no more rain, which, of course, is inconceivable."

"Even if there should be a water power famine in north Georgia, which is considered out of the question, this section could draw on Tennessee, Alabama, North Carolina and South Carolina, for an excess any of these states might have, this being rendered possible through physical connections of the high tension lines of these states."

The Farmer~ The Tractor~ The Citizens & Southern Bank

Power Farm Machinery Will Increase the Yield Of Every Georgia Farm

AGRICULTURE has become an exact science in the states where the soil is made to produce to its last degree of fertility. In the states where this is true, the soil is no more fertile than that of the old red hills of Georgia, but the yield per acre is very much larger.

The maximum crop yield is obtained only when the farmer is provided with the right kind of farm machinery; where man power is replaced with machinery that will enable the farmer to economically produce his money crop, and then refertilize his land and provide feedstuff for his live stock by planting forage crops.

The Citizens & Southern Bank, through most liberal treatment of manufacturers, distributors and jobbers, has made it possible for many Georgia farmers to equip their farms with the machinery needed. The results have been so satisfactory that this policy will be even more liberal in the future than it has been in the past.

ACES AND SONGS SET FOR TONIGHT

Warner's Orchestra, Jack Hornady, Pupil of Signor Volpi, and Mike Thomas on Program.

Two excellent programs have been arranged for entertainment of listeners who listen tonight for Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution. Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, will have the 6 o'clock broadcasting period, while Jack H. Hornady, a pupil of Signor E. Volpi, Atlanta opera coach, and Mike Thomas, pianist, former member of The Constitution staff, will entertain at 9 o'clock.

The Aces will give their regular concert tonight between 6 and 7 o'clock of six selections, with late news flashes and Constitution features between them. The regular market report will be given the last part of the broadcasting period.

For tonight B. H. Warner, director of the Aces, is planning a special program including several numbers which have been requested of the Aces during the last day or two. For this reason the program will be more attractive than usual.

Jack Hornady, who will sing six numbers on the 9 o'clock program is known from Station WGM as a tenor of excellent quality and clarity of tone that suits him for radio entertainment. He has sung twice before from Station WGM and each time made an excellent impression.

Signor Volpi, Mr. Hornady's teacher, will play the accompaniments for Mr. Hornady on the Steinway piano from Phillips & Crew.

Mr. Thomas, who will give several piano solos tonight at 9 o'clock on Mr. Hornady's program, has been heard frequently from Station WGM and has been well received each time he has played. He has prepared especially for the program tonight.

Several years on the concert stage have suited Mr. Thomas admirably for radio work. He plays with a technique and excellent expression.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Radio Editor: I would like to ask what you meant by saying that one must be able to interpret an S. O. S. Is it not necessary to understand only S. O. S. and the ship's position and call as well?

R. S.: It is not usually necessary for a person actually to communicate the news of a disaster, as there are stations that are on the lookout for this particular purpose. It is imperative, however, that you keep out of the air while a distress call is being flashed, and that is the reason why it is so necessary to know the symbol S. O. S. As soon as an S. O. S. is heard all amateur transmission should stop, as the interference might prevent intelligible communication and as a result a ship might be lost.

Radio Editor: I have an aerial, ground, crystal detector, loose coupler, and a pair of phones. What else will I have to get in order to be able to hear signals or what use will I need to improve it? R. T.: You will probably be able to hear signals with the apparatus that you now have. A fluid condenser connected across the phone will help and a variable condenser connected across the secondary of your coupled will sharpen the tuning.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

LESSON NO. 133.

An Efficient Receiving Antenna.

The usual amateur receiving station employs an antenna system which is grounded through the receiving set and has a fundamental wavelength in the vicinity of the wavelength it is desired to receive. For example, in receiving broadcasts transmitted on 360 meters a single wire from 75 to 150 feet long is employed.

Length in Meters

If it is assumed that the signal wave from station (T) is moving along the antenna in wave form toward the opposite end of the wire. If the rate at which the wave travels through the wire is the same as the rate at which it travels through the ether (space) the current will gradually increase as it approaches the receiver (R) at the end of the wire. This is because the waves in the wire and in the space adjoining the wire travel along in phase and the wire is continuously absorbing energy from the ether wave. It appears from this explanation that the longer the receiving wire is the better signals will be in the receiver, but if this idea is followed out by lengthening the antenna a point is finally reached where no further increase in the current in the wire is created due to the excessive losses in the wire itself. It follows therefore that the lower the losses are in the antenna the longer the wire may be which will still increase the signal strength.

If the constants of the circuit are such that the current in the wire does not travel at the same velocity as the wave in space, then the two waves will add at some points in the wire and further along the wire they will be in opposition to each other, resulting in a decrease in signal strength rather than an increase. The receiving set, in this instance, should be located at the point where the adding effect of the two waves will be a maximum which will be at any one of the points of maximum signal strength represented by the peaks.

Curve 1 in the figure shows how the signal strength increases with increase in the length of the receiving wire until the point is reached (where the curve flattens out) where the losses in the wire are so great that the current does not continue to build up.

LISTENING IN

Operators with headphones in place and receivers closely pressed to their ears listened hour after hour a week ago Sunday night for word of the missing airplane.

It was the Fire Island lightship, but on trace of the seaplane had been seen since it swept across the battery on its departure. The powerful navy wireless station in the Whitehall building, New York city, sent broadcast over the waters and to all coast stations word that the plane was missing and asked that any ship that sighted it send a report. The seaplane was not equipped with wireless and hence could not have communicated.

It has been announced that beginning September 11, W. J. W., the radio broadcasting station for the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., will offer regular musical programs every Monday evening in addition to the programs of Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights as at present scheduled. Other later additions are also promised.

ACES AND ROYAL CLUB ARE HEARD

Warner's Music-Makers Furnish 6 O'Clock Program—Dance Music at 9 O'Clock.

Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra and the Royal club orchestra, playing at Roseland, furnished two hours of the best kind of entertainment last evening from Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution.

Every night Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra is heard from Station WGM and is making an impression that can be claimed by no other musical organization which has played for radio broadcasting from Station WGM.

Last night under the direction of B. H. Warner, the orchestra played a program of dance and semi-classical numbers that delighted listeners. Their programs are always well balanced and attractively arranged and the concert last evening was no exception.

Their numbers on the 6 o'clock broadcast were made up with late news flashes and regular Constitution features including "Bits of New York Life" by O. O. McIntyre; selections from "The Persimmon" by Robert Quillen and "Putting the Next One Over" by Bugs Baer.

The Royal club orchestra playing from Roseland furnished a program of 12 dance numbers between 9 and 10 o'clock. This orchestra which is under the direction of Charles Strong is heard each Monday night from Station WGM and is gaining popularity among listeners.

The numbers last evening were presented to radio listeners just as the dance at Roseland, at the corner of Peachtree and Cain streets, was in progress.

American Legion Will Celebrate St. Mihiel Drive

Plans were matured Monday by the "On to New Orleans" committee of the various posts of the American Legion in Atlanta for a patriotic all-day celebration at Lakewood on September 10, the fourth anniversary of the close of the first all-American offensive with the successful occupation of the entire St. Mihiel salient. The big feature of the day will be a night time reproduction of the taking of one of the salient's heights by veterans, many of whom actually participated in such an action.

The spectacle is of intense interest to Atlantans and Georgians in general as in this action the eighty-second division received its first real baptism of fire. In it they displayed the same dash and gallantry that won their outfit undying fame later on in the grim fighting in the Argonne.

Variety of Entertainment.

Plans call for a variety of entertainment throughout the day. In the afternoon there will be a program of harness horse racing, in which every owner and trainer in this section will participate and several running races in which mounts and men will be the most pretentious and ambitious effort of the American Legion, which has already made a reputation for itself in the past.

The evening program will be equally varied. The committee is now working on an all-star boxing card that will be the most pretentious and ambitious effort of the American Legion, which has already made a reputation for itself in the past.

Throughout the day there will be band concerts, picnics and dancing, as well as the usual Lakewood carnival features. Another big attraction will be an equestrian exhibition by the cavalrymen of the horse guard.

The evening program will be equally varied. The committee is now working on an all-star boxing card that will be the most pretentious and ambitious effort of the American Legion, which has already made a reputation for itself in the past.

After the boxing, the spectacle will be put on. Members of the committee have gone over the terrain and mapped out a real problem in attack. The objective will be the wooded hills across the lake from the grandstand.

Following the "battle," dancing will be in order as long as anyone wishes to dance.

Proceeds from the celebration will go toward defraying the expenses of a special train, which will carry Atlanta veterans to the national reunion of the American Legion in New Orleans in October.

The legion committee in charge of the celebration consists of Evan P. Howell, chairman; P. P. Gambrell, E. H. Elrod, Byron Patton, John M. Glimm, "Skinny" Conyers, L. Woodruff, R. G. Stephens, Archie Mitchell and Omer Purdon.

COCHRAN TO ADDRESS VOTERS OF ROCKDALE

Ralph O. Cochran, candidate for congress to succeed Congressman W. D. Upshaw, will address the voters of Rockdale county this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Conyers at the courthouse.

"Mr. Cochran will carry every county in the district," according to a statement issued Monday by E. C. Jones, who is actively connected with Mr. Cochran's campaign. Mr. Jones further stated that "Mr. Cochran is making a clean fight and the plank of his platform advocating modification of the Volstead act is very popular."

Mr. Cochran will address the voters of Douglas county at the courthouse in Douglasville on Saturday.

MARRIED 45 YEARS, ANGLE ASKS DIVORCE

After being married 45 years H. M. Angle is seeking a divorce from his wife, Mrs. M. A. Angle. In his suit filed Monday in the Fulton superior court, Angle avers that his wife left him in 1918 and went to Westminster, S. C. He said he had made repeated efforts to persuade her to return to him but she had refused.

Father Kennedy Ill.

Father Kennedy, who has been absent from Atlanta for about three weeks, is in a hospital at Albany, N. Y., recovering from an attack of sleeping sickness, according to dispatches received here by Bishop Keiley Monday. The dispatch says further that he will probably be in the hospital for some time yet.

NO ARRESTS NEAR IN DORSEY MURDER CASE, SAYS POOLE

"Reports to the effect that arrests are imminent in connection with the murder last year of Charlie Dorsey, taxi driver, are without justification so far as this office is concerned."

said Acting Police Chief A. Lamar Poole Monday afternoon. Solicitor General John A. Boykin whose office has conducted an extensive probe of the slaying, likewise stated that if any clues had been found within the last few days to justify an arrest he had not heard of it. Dorsey's lifeless body was found on the front seat of his automobile at daybreak one morning in South Boulevard, near the federal prison, with a pistol wound in the head. An investigation by city detectives and Solicitor General Boykin's office brought about many arrests, but in each case the suspects were released, after investigators failed to assemble evidence to justify their detention.

WARCO
The Universal Motor Oil
For Ford Cars—Trucks and TRACTORS

DEARBORN, MICH.

Authorized Ford Agents and Ford Car and Truck Owners:

There are so many lubricating oils on the market claimed to be superior for the lubrication of the Ford Motors that we think that it is no more than fair to the Warren Refining and Chemical Company, the manufacturers of Warco Motor Oils, Warco Tractor Oil and Warco Gear Lubricant, to say that of my own accord, I have secured samples of these products and had them tested in our Experimenting and Testing Laboratories at Dearborn, and also our farm in Dearborn, Michigan, in the different machines and have found them very highly satisfactory. As a matter of fact, I am advised by the chemists of the Laboratory that these are the highest grades of lubricants that they have ever analyzed.

Inasmuch as far inferior products on the market are being sold for more money than is asked for these especially high grade oils, I think every Ford Agent and every user of oil should interest themselves in the sale and use of same.

Yours very truly,

MURDER CHARGED IN LYNCHING PROBE

Forsyth, Ga., August 28.—(Special.) Monroe county's grand jury has put in its first day toward carrying out the direction of Judge W. E. H. Searcy, of Griffin, in that the jurors "identify and present to the bar of justice" the men who lynched John ("Cocky") Glover. Judge Searcy left no alternative for the jurors to return indictments against members of the lynching party except for murder.

When the jury recessed for the day ten witnesses had been examined. Forty witnesses from Macon were sitting about the courthouse square, waiting to be summoned before the inquisitorial body.

The investigation will not be concluded this week, but will be recessed over next week in order that Judge Searcy may hold court in Lamar county.

"Murder," said Judge Searcy in addressing the jury, "is the unlawful killing of a human being because of malice, either expressed or implied. There has been committed within the confines of this county, according to reports reaching the court, a most atrocious murder. The victim of the murder had by all rules of humanity, and all rules of law, forfeited his right to live, but he had forfeited it to the law and to the state and not to a mob of infuriated men and unrestrained individuals."

"The fury of a mob never suppressed crime, nor avenged the wrong the victim had done. We must hope on the other hand, for the suppression of crime through the majesty and power of the law, when exercised in channels and through officers the law sets up."

J. M. Wright is foreman of the grand jury.

Macon, Ga., August 28.—Ten witnesses appeared before the Monroe county grand jury today in that body's investigation into the lynching a month ago of John ("Cocky") Glover, negro, whom a mob took from Bibb county into Monroe and lynched.

No indictments were returned. The Bibb county jury, sitting in Macon, entered the fourth week of its investigation this morning. The day was fruitless from the standpoint of indictments. If indictments are returned by the Monroe jury, they will charge murder, while the Bibb jury has already returned ten indictments charging assembling for the purpose of lynching.

OLD GRUDGE SEALED BY FATAL SHOOTING

Glovers, Ga., August 28.—(Special.)—A grudge of long standing was sealed Sunday with the killing of John William Westbrook, 30 years old, by Joe Jackson, of about the same age.

A crowd of about 50 friends of the two men saw Jackson draw a .45 calibre Colt automatic and shoot down Westbrook when the two met Sunday after having renewed their differences with a quarrel the night before. Westbrook died at his home at 9 o'clock Sunday night, a few hours after Jackson had gone to Gray to surrender to the sheriff.

The shooting occurred in front of the store of D. A. Lawrence and company, Westbrook, who was a mill employee, was shot in the stomach. Jackson is a carpenter.

Atlanta Woman Claiming Share In Great Fortune

From seamstress in a doll factory to possessor of millions almost overnight may be the fortune of Mrs. Mattie Parker, of 19 Pope street, Atlanta.

Mrs. Parker is thought to be one of the heirs to the $150,000,000 estate of Thomas Browning, North Carolina man who died recently after pulling up a fabulous fortune by successful operations in the Texas oil fields. J. C. Parker, her husband, is expected to return Tuesday from Greensboro, N. C., where he went to see J. H. Browning, another heir to the immense estate, and obtain further information in regard to his wife's claims to a share in it.

Browning, a worker in the Greensboro White Oak cotton mill, denies that Mrs. Parker has any legal claim to any part of the Thomas Browning estate. Her claim is based on a supposed relationship between her father, George H. Edwards, and Thomas Browning.

A bitter legal fight is pending, members of the Parker family say.

Relation Established.

Mrs. Parker said that her attorneys, Howard & Branch, of Atlanta, have definitely established their relationship to the late oil king.

"There is no question to our legal right to a share of the estate," Mrs. Parker said. "My grandmother, on my father's side was Thomas Browning's sister. Our family records show that."

"If J. H. Browning is a legal heir, or if he is a nephew to Thomas Browning as he says he is, why we know nothing about it," she continued. "Of course, it is possible that he is a relative, but whether he is or not, makes no difference. We have established our right to a share in the estate."

Upon Mr. Parker's return from Greensboro he is expected to leave for Texas, where he will confer with two brothers-in-law, Henry Edwards and Hanes Edwards, now at Eloy, Fla., where they have been for several weeks, trying to unravel the family heirship tangle.

Would Give Milk.

A free milk clinic for undernourished babies is the first thing she would invest in after she builds a new home, if she wins her claim, said Mrs. Parker when interviewed Monday.

"Think of all the babies in the big cities who never have enough milk—and think how wonderful it would be for them if their mothers could go some place and get it without having to pay for it."

Mrs. Parker sews all day at a doll factory on Pryor street.

Her nimble fingers fashion doll clothes to make little children happy. "But think how much happier poor babies would be with plenty of milk than rich babies are with pretty dolls."

She said it was "just a little hard to believe" that she will in all probability fall heir to so much money.

"But aren't you going to spend lots on yourself?" she was asked.

Would Care for Own.

"Yes, I suppose I will spend quite a bit, for people can't hardly resist spending money if they have it, but I am going to make other people happy, too—I guess I will buy a car, not a five-dollar one, but a real car."

"Of course I am not going to overlook my two babies. My husband I have tried hard to make them happy. We have sent one on to school, but we have had to struggle along to make ends meet."

Mrs. Parker is the daughter of George H. Edwards, a DeKalb county farmer, nephew of Thomas Brown-

HERRIN MASSACRE WITNESSES HEARD

Marion, Ill., August 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The first witnesses were called this afternoon before the grand jury investigating the Herrin mine war, fought around the Lester strip mine, June 21 and 22, after the jury had received its instructions from Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell. Today's witnesses included employees of an electric railway running between here and Herrin, who were said to have been eye-witnesses of the man-hunting battle, and the owner of a hardware store from which ammunition was taken during the preparation for the battle.

This afternoon Sheriff Melvin Thaxton, against whom there has been considerable criticism since the massacre, was called before the investigators. He was followed by his deputy, S. E. Storm. Considerable time was then given to examining Colonel Sam Hunter, of the Illinois national guard.

While nothing of the testimony is permitted to go outside of the grand jury room, it is understood that these witnesses repeated their statements made at the inquest.

T. A. Cox, a hardware merchant, testified before the grand jury that a mob had raided his store and carried off a quantity of ammunition.

In addressing the grand jury, Circuit Judge Hartwell pointed out that a fair and complete investigation should be made, and that all guilty parties should be punished for the blot they have stamped on Williamson county.

Patrons Approve Plans for New School Building

Final plans of the new addition to the English Avenue school to be erected under the $4,000,000 school program, were unanimously approved at a meeting of more than 200 patrons of the school Monday night.

Plans will be presented to council Tuesday afternoon at a special meeting which has been called by Mayor Key in order that the work on the building can be begun at once.

According to the plans, which were drawn by A. Ten Eyck Brown, supervising architect in charge of the school program, the English Avenue school when completed will consist of 32 classrooms, a special assembly room and a dental clinic laboratory. The addition will cost approximately $171,000.

W. L. McCalley, Jr., chairman of the finance committee of the board of education, and Mr. Brown were the only speakers at the meeting. Both described the plans and declared when finished the English Avenue school would be one of the handsomest and most adequately equipped in the entire school system.

J. E. Bowden, prominent resident of the fifth ward, acted as chairman of the meeting.

Work on the new building will begin this week, provided council at its special session approves the plans, Mr. McCalley stated.

ing, who left his home near Old Hundred schoolhouse in 1858, and went to Texas.

If Mrs. Parker and her father, Gorris Edwards, establish their legal right to part of the millions of the Browning estate, their share will be determined to Mr. Edwards. The fortune will then be divided between Mrs. Parker and two sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Crosby and Mrs. Josie Parker, and one brother, Henry Edwards, all of Atlanta.

Champion Mfg. Co.'s Cylinder Reboring Tools For Ford and Fordson

The Champion Cylinder Reboring Tool is a new line with us. It was chosen as a member of the big Ozburn-Abston group of service equipment because of its unusual utility, fool-proofness, accuracy and low cost.

With one operation, it rebore and refinishes a Ford or Fordson cylinder. Only one alignment required for reboring and finishing the four cylinders, in true alignment with crankshaft bearing.

It is, in our opinion, the most simple and efficient tool that money can buy, though its price is very low. Its accuracy and finish defies criticism.

Service Station Equipment Co.'s Unbeatable Line of Equipment For Ford Dealers Shops

We have a complete line of the renowned Service Station Equipment Company's equipment for Ford and Fordson service stations, on display in our booths.

This exhibit includes such well-known units as the F. B. Test stand for locating starter and generator trouble. Universal Burning-In Machines for both Ford and Fordson motors, motor stands, and rear axle stands.

In addition to these, we have a complete line of the time-proven labor-saving devices made by this big concern.

The modernly equipped station always uses a good number of the Service Station Equipment Company's products.

Hempy & Cooper Rebabbitting and Reboring Tool For Ford and Fordson

One of the great labor and time-saving devices, especially designed for Ford and Fordson Service Stations, is this inexpensive little outfit.

With one of these outfits, the main bearings of a Ford or Fordson Motor can be rebabbitting and rebored in ten minutes, total elapsed time.

The hot babbitt is applied directly to the cold bearing, and is then finished with a new jackknife boring machine.

This machine will more than pay for itself, in time and labor saved, as well as better and more accurate workmanship. We invite you to see it in operation in our big booth.

David Lupton's Sons Parts Department Equipment For Ford Dealers

Lupton steel parts bins are especially designed, with the co-operation of Ford Motor Company engineers, for systematically storing and displaying Ford and Fordson parts.

They are made in sets to carry Ford and Fordson parts of varying sizes. They can also be had in units.

The Lupton line also includes tire, rim and wheel racks, spring and spring leaf racks, tables, metal table legs, etc.

The new Lupton Accessory and Parts display case will be shown in our booth for the first time in the southeast. This is designed and constructed especially for this use. It comes in units to fit any space.

Miscellaneous Items Every Ford and Fordson Shop Should Not Be Without

To enumerate all of the items which we carry, especially for Ford and Fordson service stations, would be impossible. In order to get a comprehensive idea of the many items which we carry it is necessary to visit our booth.

Among the other lines which we will have on exhibition, and which we carry in stock, are: a complete stock of Weaver

Garage equipment. This line is too well-known to need elaboration. The General Electric Company's Battery Charging outfit is also of special use to the Ford and Fordson shop.

We carry in stock in Atlanta every item from the smallest hair twist drill to the heaviest piece of equipment needed in the well organized Ford service station.

All of these, as well as hundreds of other items, are carried in stock in Atlanta and distributed in the Atlanta Ford Company Branch Territory by

DRESS BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

The Extravagant Fashion in Mufflers for Beach and Country Use Will Be Echoed at White Sulphur and Hot Springs in the Autumn in America, and It Is Well to Recognize Their Importance.

PARIS. When the American goes about here she is astonished at the mufflers. They are omnipresent. They are as colorful as the Durbar of the Indo-Chinese dancers at the Moll Colonial. They are the spoils of the peasant's shawl.

Once before the war, a host of rich and fashionable women appeared in America wearing colored silk sweaters, mufflers and hats made by one French house, and after a few months the fashion was accepted in mass and ran for years. The new immense mufflers with hats to match, sometimes not, will start, probably, on their American career on the decks of fast-going liners, homeward-bound, as the silk ones did.

The new kind are as big as shawls. They are really protective and not intended for the neck only. All the fabrics, all the new decorations, go to their making. It is a thing which shows no diminution of value for frocks and wraps, even in the new collections, is fantastically treated in these mufflers.

The sketch shows to what limits the thing can go. It is a beach wrap, but it will be launched at the smart country places later. It's just the thing for Americans who go through the Indian summer out in the open. The fabric is green duvetyne, the green of the French fresh almonds. The embroidery is done in white in primitive design. The lining is white crepe de Chine. It is circular, which is a novelty, and is wrapped about the body twice, held by a belt. It is worn over a white crepe frock and topped by a white ribbon hat.

By the way, the ribbon hat is not dead. It is among the severest things continued in the autumn fashions, although it may be solely for the Americans; the French say the lace Peruvian turban is merely a popular design for the general trade in America. Yet one of the most powerful French milliners is making it, and when Suzanne Talbot puts the seal of her approval on a fashion, one is inclined to believe it is still good among the smart French women. That the ornamental and decorative Indian tur-

Curious sport cape worn at Deauville of green duvetyne embroidered in white flowers and lined with white crepe. The frock beneath is of white crepe. The ribbon hat is one of the desirable models made of broad ribbon.

Four Remarkable Groups In a Special Selling

Autumn Silk Dresses

—These dresses are new—they bear the hall-mark of fashion. They are excellent, coming as they do from the foremost dressmakers of America. Specially bought and selling tomorrow at four remarkably low prices—$13.95, $19.95, $23.95 and $28.95. We cannot tell you how beautiful they are, so we have had our artist sketch three of the styles to give you some idea of what they are like. By buying now you will enjoy the thrill of being among the first to wear the new autumn dresses—and we do not believe you will profit by waiting—for such dresses as these will not be lower in price for many months, if then! The selling will begin briskly at nine.

New Dresses, $13.95

—Of Canton crepe and twill cords. Lovely styles for street wear. Two notes of interest are the pleated and draped panels that are so fashionable. The trimmings are novelty embroidery, nail heads, braid drawn work and metal ornaments. Black and navy. Sizes 16 to 42. You would expect to pay dollars more for such dresses.

New Dresses, $19.95

—Of Canton crepe, satin Canton, crepe de Chine and twills. Styles with draped, pleated or straight panels and other beautiful effects. Finished with metal ornaments, silk embroidery, cord tassels, beads and so forth. Most of them have round necks and no collars. Navy, black and a few in brown. Very special at this low price.

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW

BY W. L. GEORGE

A bad tradition is grown up among women, and it ravages most of the social ranks. They seem to imagine that man wants to be entertained with sprightly conversations, so they pour upon his devoted head epigrams, quotations, instances where they displayed resourcefulness, and reminiscences of their old home when they were not taller than that. In other words, they talk too much. Nearly all women talk too much; one objection to their conversation is that it prevents men talking all the time. Every woman knows that man is happiest when he is talking about himself, and yet she commits the folly of impeding him in this pleasant exercise.

Of course, when a man is attracted to a woman it does not much matter how much she talks, for he pays no attention at all to her words, but watches the movement of the lips which he hopes to kiss. But if he is not yet attracted he may be repelled, because he will not have the chance to tell the girl what a fine fellow he is, and therefore he will be less moved toward her. I do not suggest that girls should cultivate complete silence. Man wants to be helped in his conversation by remarks such as, "How clever of you." Or, "How ever did you think of that?" Or even, "How brave of you! I never should have dared." On the whole, however, the best a girl can do for herself, if she desires popularity among men, is to talk as little as can be. Briefly: keep her eyes open and her mouth shut. Man is an innocent animal; when a girl lays upon him the unwinning gaze of attractive eyes he considers that she has a beautiful soul. The eyes of a cow would do as well; they are the most soulful of all. Let him think you soulful, then; you will not deceive him later on.

(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

Man may become an eyesore in America there is reason to believe. We do everything by the millions.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Edited by Anna Rittenhouse.

RECORD YOUR SAVINGS

There is a certain satisfaction in knowing that you are saving money through forethought, thrift and careful buying. But to get the full satisfaction from this, you should keep some sort of record of it. It is a good plan to have a little note book. A cheap diary will answer the purpose. In this you may keep a memorandum from day to day to show just how much you have saved by your own efforts. Few housewives can make money. They do not have the satisfaction of knowing just what they accomplish in dollars and cents as do men. But they can keep a record of what they save, and this result is often gratifying.

For instance, you need a new autumn hat. You realize that you will have to pay eight or ten dollars for a new one. Then you cast about and find two or three discarded hats. You rip them up and find that the frame of one will answer the purpose perfectly for a new hat. The shape is quite like that of a new hat you have seen. In the other hat you find a quantity of velvet and moire silk that can be taken off, cleaned, pressed and used again easily enough. You set to work and recover the old frame with the renovated materials. You then buy two black quills at less than a dollar, and you may then conclude that you have saved a difference between what you would have to pay for a new hat and the cost of those quills.

Another day your cleaning woman does not come, and by carefully planning your work you manage to get through the work she was expected to do. That day you saved the cost of the cleaning woman.

The fact is that there is almost a limitless opportunity for the housewife to save money. If you keep a record of these savings you will find that it offers interesting suggestions for future savings and furnishes you with gratifying proof that your time is well spent.

A Thought for Mother.

For the busy mother with several children, it is sometimes a good idea to have a week for each one—do all that one's mending and little things that have been left undone. The next week devote to a different member of the family and so on until all have been attended to. You will find you will have help from the other members of the family, too, in this way.

Gloves Like New.

Hard Work Features Vacation Of Talented Atlanta Singer

Riley Eakin, talented and beautiful Atlantian who possesses a dramatic soprano voice of wonderful sweetness and quality. She has returned from North Carolina, where she spent the summer.

Riley Eakin, the feature soloist of Atlanta, has returned from North Carolina, where she spent the summer enjoying the sports offered by the great out-of-doors, yet without finding time to give to her exquisite dramatic soprano voice the several hours' practice which she deems the most important work of her daily routine.

Mrs. Eakin will be recalled by music lovers as having sung, under the direction of Enrico Leide, the prologue to "The Land of the Midnight Sun," which was one of the outstanding events of the season. She will appear, beginning with the week of September 4, at the Howard, when Mr. Leide will present her in one of his most ambitious productions.

When asked how she spent her time this summer Mrs. Eakin casually remarked, "Just resting," but on being pressed for details she admitted the following as her daily routine: Arose at 7 a. m., 20-minute walk around Waynesville, breakfast at 8, then for a canter, gallop, or ride beginning about 9 and covering from 5 to 25 miles, depending upon the weather, luncheon at 1, and then sleep (we understand that all artists are permitted such liberties in the daytime.) Promptly at 4 p. m., every day two hours were put in at an improvised studio vocalizing and rehearsing and adding to her repertoire; of course, dinner at 8 p. m., and then the light fantastic until bedtime.

This schedule may have varied a bit to allow for tennis, golf, hunting or an occasional trip to Asheville. Last Sunday evening she appeared as the featured soloist on the grand opera program that is an annual feature or farewell given by the Hotel Gordon, where Mrs. Eakin made her home.

A treat is in store for the people of Atlanta this fall as this talented singer has spent her summer months profitably in training for the strenuous work ahead and it is a pleasure to know she will remain in Atlanta this fall.

Pie Crust.

Never stretch pie crust to make it fit over the pie plate. Crust shrinks in baking and the result will be a misshapen pie. If the crust rolled out is not large enough piece it out with smaller pieces; they will all bake together.

Drapery Talk

The treatment of the windows is one of the most important features of the new house. It is not a matter to be settled without careful thought and an intelligent study from many points of view.

Our plans for window decorations provide for all the fine points that must be considered if the loveliness of your home is to be complete.

This is the season for redecoration, as well as for moving into the new home. The woman who can change only one item of her decorative scheme knows that fresh curtains and draperies do more than anything else to give new life and interest to her home.

There are so many lovely new materials, so many delightful new combinations that the task of redecoration becomes a fascinating experience.

We are prepared to relieve you of the entire responsibility of planning, making and hanging your new curtains and draperies. Or, if you wish to make and hang them yourself, we shall be glad to give you suggestions that may prove helpful.

"ARE ALL MEN ALIKE?"

By Arthur Stringer

Author of "The Prairie Wife," "The House of Intrigue," etc.

Teddie explained the situation. "Yuh just made a sale to this guy here, didn't yuh?" persisted the officer.

"Yes, this is the cotilar he paid me," Teddie acknowledged.

"That's enough," averred her persecutor. "Yuh'll have to come along with me."

But Raoul Uhlman insisted on calling a taxicab and in transit to the police court managed to say many soothing and various things. She soon had the satisfaction, moreover, of seeing her gruff patrolman berated by a higher official who announced that there was no case against her she was quite free.

So Teddie sallied forth with Raoul Uhlman at her side. And before she knew how it had all been arranged, it was agreed that Uhlman was to come three times a week and give her lessons in art, for the sake of art.

It wasn't until her third lesson that Teddie began to doubt the wisdom of her arrangement with Raoul Uhlman. She was not clean of heart as she was clear of head, and she resented what began to dawn on her as the unnecessary physical nearness of the man as he corrected her drawing. "I guess that will about do as for today, won't it?" she said in her quiet and slightly reedy voice as she proceeded to open a window.

But he crossed the room and towered above her in his business like something taurine, alert and yet ponderously calm.

The blackness of his pupils and the aquiline cruelty about the corner of his eyes frightened her.

But she did not give way to panic; to do so was not the custom of her kind. She fought down her sudden weak impulse to cry out, her equally absurd propulsion to flight.

For she realized that he was impervious to the weapons that had always served her. The laws of her world meant nothing to him. It was like walking up and finding a burglar in the house, a burglar who knew no law but force.

For a moment or two she fought with all that was left of her strength, writhing and twisting and panting, struggling to free her pinioned arms. Then she ceased abruptly, devastated, not so much by her helplessness as by the ignominy of her efforts. She went limp in his arms as he forced her head, and with his hands encircling her shoulders, kissed her on the mouth.

"You are going," she said, slowly and distinctly. He was smiling absently as he picked up his hat and gloves. And he stopped in front of her, still smiling, on his way out.

"Remember, wild-bird, I am coming back tomorrow," he said. "Tomorrow, at three!"

Theodora, confronted by the first entirely sleepless night of her career, hugged her wounded pride to her breast and went pioneering.

Her only hope she suddenly felt, lay in Gunboat Dorgan. Her only chance of balancing life's ledger of violence rested with that East Side youth with the forehead as broad as the cruller flower ears.

It was three hours before Gunboat had finished with his boxing-class at the club, and had appraised himself in a rear belt and a pair of slippers, as he expressed it, who could beat her ponies down in bank-notes. When he appeared before Teddie, accordingly, he did so in a state of complete relaxation.

"What's the trouble, lady?" asked Gunboat. "I've just been insulted in this studio by a brute who calls himself a man, intolerably and atrociously insulted," she said.

Gunboat Dorgan's face lost its slightly barracked look. This was a matter which brought him back to earth.

"And this man threatens to come here today and repeat that insult," Teddie went on. "And, to speak quite plainly, I want some one to protect me."

Gunboat's face brightened. He moistened a hard young lip with the point of his tongue as he stood gazing into clouded eyes for which lanes would surely have been shattered at Ashler.

"Who's the guy been gettin' fresh?" he demanded. "It's a beast called Raoul Uhlman," she announced.

"That puddin'!" cried Gunboat, with a touch of ecstasy. "Why, that guy tried to pull the soft stuff with Ruby last winter, but nothin' put me wise until it was six months too late. Say, lady, what I want me to do to that cake eater? Blot 'em out?"

There was a hard light in the pagan young eyes of the girl in black.

"Yes," she announced, without hesitation.

"Then he'll get his!" affirmed the other just as promptly.

She watched Gunboat step to the door, with his hat in his hand, come to a stop, and then step back to the table-end.

"Say," he said with a slightly self-conscious and not altogether heroic look on his face, "don't say anything to Miss Reamer about this, lady, if yuh don't mind. It's not that I've got anything to hide. But yuh know what women are!"

"Come in," said Teddie, rather shakily.

The knocker on her door had sounded.

Agnes Scott Opening

Agnes Scott College will open its next session on September 19th. While there has been a waiting list for dormitory space since February 1st, applications are still being accepted for the "Honor List." Details will be furnished on request.

The day student registration is the heaviest in the history of the College and is rapidly nearing its limit. No student can be accepted on this list until the admission certificate is complete. For blanks write or telephone the College.

ed ominously through the quietness, and courage seemed to vanish before a breathless sense of impending culmination. She knew, as she saw Raoul Uhlman step quietly into the studio and close the door behind him, that the die was cast, and it was already too late to evade the intimidating final issue.

Yet her visitor, as he crossed smilingly to the table where she sat, carried less of the air of a cave-man than she had expected.

"There's just one thing I want to say to you, that I must say to you," she told him still in the grip of that forlorn impulse to escape from it all while escape was yet possible.

But he advanced confidently, step by step, and she retreated.

"What's the use of wasting words?" he softly inquired.

"But they won't be wasted," cried the girl.

"Everything that keeps me from remembering will be wasted!"

"Remembering what?"

"That you waited for me! Everything but that will be wasted," he reminded her. "At first I was afraid, terribly afraid, that you wouldn't be here when I came. But you knew that I was coming and you stayed! And that's all I want to know."

"Do you know why I stayed?" she demanded whiter than ever, stunned by the colossal egotism that could assume so much.

"Yes—for this," was his reply as he took possession of the two barricaded arms in their loose-sleeved blouse. And it was at that precise moment that Gunboat Dorgan stepped into the room.

Teddie's persecutor, with one quick glance over his shoulder, saw the quick glances of the young man in the natty sophomore-looking suit that gave him the beguiling air of a strippling.

"What does all this mean?" he demanded, drawing himself up, for Gunboat Dorgan was already advancing toward him.

"It means I'm going to pound this zoon-bug out o' your fat carcass," cried the lightweight boxer, with exultation in his kindling eyes.

And Teddie, overcome by what she knew to be imminent, tried to call out "Stop!" tried to say "No, no; it's too—"

But she was too late.

For the second time in one day, Raoul Uhlman was guilty of a grave error in judgment. He decided to show this diminutive intruder that a man of his dimensions wasn't to be trifled with.

But something altogether unexpected seemed to intervene. Raoul was suddenly subjected to many experiences which were hard to account for, the principal one being a misty wonder as to why an opponent so insignificant to the eye could be so devastating in his fore-shortened arm-strokes.

Not that the big-framed artist didn't resist, and rest to the last of his strength. But the thing became loathsome to the girl who no longer stood aside in a cold and impersonal fury. For Uhlman's nose blew predictably and left tell-tale maulations on the studio-floor. Finally the dazed big frame wobbled against the table, and Teddie, realizing that she had trifled with darker and deeper currents than she had dreamed, felt a good deal like a murderer, and could stand it no more. She was faint and sick and uncertain of the knee-joint.

"Oh, take him away, take him away!" she pleaded, with her hands held over her face to shut out the horror of it all.

And the triumphant Gunboat Dorgan took him away, an inert bulk anything but good to look upon, a disheveled somnambulist with a right eye that was already beginning to close.

When the prize fighter stepped back into the studio he already seemed to have himself well in hand. He was flushed and a little warm, but outwardly untroubled. He put on his coat and came and stood over Teddie where she sat limp and white, staring down at the overturned easel. And he in turn stood staring down at her, with his head a little to one side.

"Oh, please go away," said the weak-voiced girl, with a revulsion of feeling which left utter solitude the only thing to be desired.

But Gunboat Dorgan had experienced his own revulsions of feeling. And he was flushed now with something more than victory.

"Say, Ruby's all right," he confidentially acknowledged. "But this sure puts her in the discard. And what's more, I guess I ought to break the way the did. I'm mighty glad it was me you got to put this thing straight. And—"

And before she quite realized what he meant Gunboat Dorgan had caught her up and kissed her on the tear-stained cheek.

"Yuh understand don't yuh?" he said, laughing a little triumphantly at the stricken light which came into her eyes.

She stood up, dizzy, gathering her breath to say what she had to say. But he pushed her back gently into her chair, with a smile that was both a little shy and a little proprietary. Then he slipped out of the room with his light and panther-like step, leaving her with the bed-rock of existence no longer merely undulating, but fallen utterly and irrevocably.

Club Women Memorialize Co-Workers Who Have Gone On

The first act of the Atlanta Women's club in the beginning of its club year of 1922-23 was a memorial service Monday in honor of those members who have died within the year past, and the tribute of love and appreciation was moving and beautiful. It was held in the auditorium, towards the building of which every member memorialized had contributed in work and interest to make possible, and the president of the club, Mrs. B. M. Boykin, presided.

Mrs. W. C. Jarnigan read suitable passages from the Holy Scriptures, and Mrs. W. O. Chas. sang with feeling, "Lead Kindly Light." Mrs. Charles Chalmers playing the piano accompanied Mrs. Alonzo Richardson led the congregation of friends and co-workers in prayer, and then Mrs. Boykin introduced the club members who were to speak their tributes, in many cases those paying tributes being close friends of the deceased, and their reminiscences dating from childhood companionships.

Words of remembrance were thus said in memory of Mrs. Elijah Wil-

Honor Guests at First Club Luncheon

Distinguished honor guests to be entertained at the first club luncheon, given at the Atlanta Women's club on Wednesday, September 6, will include:

Mrs. James E. Hays, of Montezuma, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Edythe Marimion Brosius, the noted baronet of Washington, D. C., who will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Moore; M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, and W. A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, and other people of prominence.

Miss Wesley Hostess at Bridge-Tea.

Mrs. Otis Wesley, of Roanoke, Va., was honor guest Monday at a bridge-tea at her home on Spring street.

Lovely garden flowers decorated the rooms where the game was played, and pretty novelties were presented the honor guest and the winners of top scores and consolation prizes.

Mrs. Paul Wesley and Miss Emma Laura Wesley assisted the hostess in receiving.

Col. and Mrs. Reisinger To Leave Atlanta.

The many friends of Colonel and Mrs. H. C. Reisinger of the marine corps will learn with regret that the colonel will be detached from duty in Atlanta the latter part of September. Colonel Reisinger has been assigned to duty in Philadelphia as the major master of the marine corps on the eastern coast. Mrs. Reisinger will leave Atlanta about September 5 for her visit to her parents, Major General and Mrs. George F. Elliott, in Washington, D. C., and later for a series of visits in New York and Long Island, joining Colonel Reisinger in Philadelphia. During his tour of duty in this city Colonel Reisinger has been very active in athletics and other forms of outdoor healthy exercise, and has made an enviable name for himself in these activities. Mrs. Reisinger has been very prominent in social affairs, her pleasing personality having won for her a host of friends.

Miss Coburn Will Be Honor Guest.

Mrs. J. M. Couper will entertain informally, Wednesday afternoon at her home on Inman street, the honor guest, Miss Emma Coburn, sister of the head of the Columbia University.

Miss Coburn, a charming and gifted woman, is the guest of another brother here.

Motor Picnic To Lake Bennett.

A motor picnic to Lake Bennett Friday assembled the following members of the younger set:

Misses Dorothy Perkins, Marian Barker, Mary Anderson, Sara Cohen, Gertrude Barker, Doris Bodin, Lillian Barker, John Claffy, Tom Barker, G. L. Hollingsworth, Robert Reed, Parka Williamson, Harold Williams, and Miss Helen Frank Nicols. Mrs. M. D. Barker chaperoned.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

To Marie N. and all other inquirers for information on Dr. Emile Coue's method of healing the sick:

If you will forward a s. a. envelope I will send you the name of a most interesting book on Dr. Coue's method. I cannot give you this information through the column since it might be construed as advertising.

The description of your eyelids leads me to think that you are suffering from eczema. This trouble brings on a dry skin condition that is both itching and sore. Quite naturally, your eyes would be thin and would fall out. I will be glad to mail you a formula for an excellent eyelash tonic, if you wish to try home treatment, but it is best to consult your doctor about the condition which is at the root of the trouble.

Archibald's Sister: Your brother should use a stiff brush on his feet instead of immersing them so long in hot water. The best soap for this purpose will be one in which there is some salicylic acid. If that is not easy to procure, however, use one of the soaps that have antiseptic properties. This scrubbing should be done every night, followed by a liberal use of an astringent powder. Such a powder may be made at home by shaking together 65 grammes of starch, 25 grammes of burnt alum and two and half grammes of salicylic acid.

Anxious: If your feet are always blistered after wearing a new shoe, you must be selecting cuts of foot gear that do not suit the shape of your feet. Your feet may be very sensitive, requiring a soft leather and a flexible sole. Such a shoe is always well made.

After you extract this superfluous hair with the tweezers it will return. But the act of tweezing does not cause the hair to come back either coarser or more plentiful.

Sola: If you open the pores by using hot applications, more oil will be absorbed by the skin during the massage. The treatment is, therefore, more beneficial when the heat is not omitted.

Constance C.: You should not feel sensitive to the criticisms of your friends when they assume that you are particular about cleanliness and neatness. These qualities should be so natural that their presence should be taken for granted. If you did not have a regard for these details, possibly you would not have advanced as you have in your positions.

Jay S.: Many people are using henna to brighten the shade of their ashen blond hair since it is a coloring tonic.

With the blue eyes, a rosy complexion, and such hair as you describe, your colors are all shades of blue, green and brown, although you will not find any color unbecoming.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh

Author of "The Human Side of Retail Selling," "The A & C of Retailing," etc.

Many housewives are saving time and fuel today by cooking with a steam pressure cooker, a device similar in use to a fireless cooker, but differing in methods. In the pressure cooker, food is cooked by steam generated from water in the bottom of the cooker. Therefore, in choosing a steam pressure cooker, one essential point is to observe the petcock and safety valve. They should be durable and easy to operate so that the steam can be well controlled. Of course, the cooker's main feature is that it is steam tight.

The most suitable material for a steam-pressure cooker is aluminum. This conducts heat quickly and does not waste fuel by being the pressure to the required point. Moreover, it cleans easily and will not rust.

Be sure, in selecting a pressure cooker, that you choose one suitable in size for both the necessary cooking and canning. It should be so shaped that it may be cleaned easily. Many women place certain foods directly in the aluminum cooker without other containers, provided the cooker is kept thoroughly clean. The weight of the cooker should be considered, too, if a woman is to lift it.

Woman Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes This Offer

Cumberland, Md.—"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine—always have an easy time at childbirth and what I did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she will write asking what it did for me."

The Beloved Traitor

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

Next Week, "The Quest of Alistair"
By Robert Allison Hood

"Yes, yes; at once!" he said mechanically. "But—she was staring at her now in sudden consternation—'but you can't go like that! Have you not other clothes?'"

She pointed at the little bundle on the floor. He shook his head.

"No hat? No coat?"

"No-o," she said tremulously.

"But this is not Bernar-sur-Mer, Marie-Louise!" he said, in concern. "You can't go about dressed like that in Paris; and, besides, you would freeze, my child."

She looked at him in silence—a sort of pitiful despair, mingling bitter disappointment and helpless dependence, in her eyes.

"Tut, tut!" murmured Father Anton, pulling at his under lip. And then quickly: "But wait—wait! We shall see." And he ran into the other room.

There were always clothes there for his poor.

"Here, Marie-Louise!" he called out, returning into the front room. "You may have these, child."

"O!" she exclaimed, as she took them. Her eyes widened. "O—they are pretty! But—but, Father Anton, where did you get them? They are new."

"No, not quite," he smiled; "but new enough, I think, to last you all the winter. They are sent to me by the rich people among other things, to be distributed where I think they will do most good. So now they are yours."

"O, Father Anton!" she cried again in wonder at the sudden luxury that was hers—and slipped on the cloak; and ran to the cure's shaving glass, which was the only semblance of a mirror in evidence, to set the turban daintily upon her head.

Presently they were on the street and in a little while she was standing before a great building, and the building was ablaze with lights, and carriage after carriage, automobile after automobile was drawing up before a strange sort of canopy.

There was laughter, merriment around her; they pressed against her, they touched her, these wonderfully dressed people. "How soft the carpet was! How one's feet sank into it! It was a sacrifice that she should walk upon it! How that constant murmur of voices rose and fell, rose and fell! What were they saying? Yes, yes! 'Jean Laparde... Jean Laparde...'"

And now they were in a great marble vestibule, and Father Anton was handing a card to an attendant, and speaking to the man. And then there were stairs, beautiful marble stairs, and the press of people was left behind, and then—and then—she was in a balcony, and below her—myriad lights from a massive chandelier played on the bare, flashing shoulders of women, played on the jewels that adorned coiffures and necks, played on glittering uniforms, on a scene magnificent and splendid—and Jean—only there was a grace, an ease, a command, a kingship in his poise as he stood there, and they came, the men, the women, and bowed before him.

Do you remember Monsieur and Mademoiselle Bliss? Father Anton said gently. "See—they are there beside Jean. And that tall man to whom they are talking is a very famous statesman for one so young. His name is Paul Valmain."

Then Father Anton touched her arm.

"It is the president of the republic coming, Marie-Louise—see! Listen!" There was tumult about her. Her eyes were blinded with tears now, and they were proud tears, and they were glad tears, and they were wondering tears. Her fingers closed in a tense pressure over Father Anton's hand—and she spoke.

"He belongs to France!"

And then, after another moment: "Take me—back now—Father Anton, please!"

Myrna Bliss tapped petulantly with the toe of her small shoe on the floor of the limousine, glanced at the diamond-encrusted bracelet watch on her wrist and remarked more or less abstractly that it was a minute or so after 5 o'clock. The reception of the night before had, so far as she was concerned, been marked by two incidents, which, at the present moment, were very fully occupying her thoughts.

It had required all her tact and ingenuity to avert a declaration from Paul Valmain. The man was passionately, madly in love with her; and so was Jean—which went without saying! Imagine! The two lions of social Paris!

And just after the arrival of the president, Jean had sought her out. He had been intoxicated with the fame, the adulation, the triumph of the moment.

"The studio, tomorrow afternoon at five, Myrna—don't fail," he had said—and had passed on.

There had been a certain air of authority in his tones—to which she had promptly taken exception, and to which she still took exception. She was going, of course, to the studio now—but she would take care of Jean! Five o'clock, he had said. She would be a little late—as she intended to be. At half past five she had asked Paul Valmain and a choice circle of the younger set to drop in at 26 Rue Vanitaire, as a graceful little courtesy, so to speak, to congratulate Jean on his triumph of the night before! One's defenses should always be in order!

The small shoe began to tap on the floor of the car again. The man towered, stood alone, without rival, as the greatest sculptor of the age. And in a sense, he had not begun. Men like Bidelot and her father said that, stupendous as it already was, his genius had not yet attained its full development: there still remained an intangible something yet to be achieved.

"Ah, just that tout petit chose!" old Bidelot called it. "So fleeting, so evanescent, so—no—no!" and he would have his arms like a grand opera conductor. "Soul," her father called it, in his turn. "The boy hasn't lived enough yet. He'll get it, and then—"

Myrna glanced at her watch again. It was ten minutes past five, and the car was slowing up in front of the studio. In twenty minutes the others would be here—she had told them to be prompt. Some day, it was very possible, she might marry Jean—but not yet. She was far too well contented with her life as it was!

She alighted from the car and ran up the steps. Hector, a little to her surprise, was not in evidence. The front door, however, was not locked. She pushed it open, entered the hall—she crossed the door of the salon, and knocked. There was no answer. There was, however, nothing strange about that—Jean, probably, was in the studio proper.

She opened the salon door softly, closed it softly, stepped into the center of the large, magnificently appointed room and, calmly unbuckling her long gloves, stood looking around her. And then her fingers held quite rigidly on a glove button. Jean was rising from a divan behind her, near the door. She turned her head and shoulders like a statue on a pedestal, to watch him in amazement. Without a word, he stepped swiftly to the door, locked it—and now he was putting the key in his pocket.

"Jean, what are you doing?" she exclaimed sharply.

He made no answer—only looking at her, his head thrown back on his powerful shoulders, his eyes abnormally bright. His face grew white and very set. She pulled the bell cord; the bell jangled in the concourse below.

"Hector and Madam Mi-mi, his wife, are on a holiday—with 5 francs apiece in their pockets—to celebrate last night," he jerked out the words in a colorless, even way.

She noticed that his lips twitched, that his knuckles were white because his hands were so tightly clenched. He had sent Hector and madam away—she was quite alone in the place with him. What did it mean? "Open that door!" she commanded levelly. "What do you mean by acting like this? Are you mad—have you lost your senses?"

He laughed outright now—with sudden harshness, bitterly.

"Mad?" he repeated in a choked voice.

"I MADE US ALL VERY UNHAPPY TO HEAR THAT YOU ARE FEELING SO BADLY AND WE HOPE BY THE TIME THIS LETTER REACHES YOU THAT YOU ARE MUCH IMPROVED—I WANT TO THANK YOU A THOUSAND TIMES IN LITTLE CHESTER'S BOND FOR THE WONDERFUL GIFT YOU HAVE ENDOWED HIM WITH AND ASSURE YOU THAT IT WILL BE USED TO HIS EVERY ADVANTAGE."

I TOLD HIM OF YOUR WONDERFUL GIFT AND WHILE HE IS TOO YOUNG TO APPRECIATE IT SUFFICIENTLY NOW I KNOW IN THE YEARS THAT ARE TO COME HE WILL HOLD THE NAME OF HIS BELOVED UNCLE BENJAMIN GUMP, IN HIGHEST REVERENCE FOR THE LIFE OPPORTUNITY YOU HAVE AFFORDED HIM—NOW UNCLE, I HAVE A SURPRISE FOR YOU—

A COMMITTEE CALLED ON ME THE OTHER DAY AND ASKED ME TO ACCEPT THE NOMINATION FOR CONGRESS ON THE INDEPENDENT TICKET—SO IF ON YOUR NEXT VISIT YOU WANT TO FALL AROUND WITH A CONGRESSMAN YOU MIGHT SEND A CONTRIBUTION TOWARD MY CAMPAIGN EXPENSES—AND FOR GOODNESS SAKE CHEER UP AND GET WELL—EVERY CLOUD HAS A SILVER LINING—YOUR CLOUDS ARE NOT ONLY LINED WITH GOLD BUT ARE ALSO STUDDED WITH DIAMONDS—WITH LOVE AND BEST WISHES FOR A SPEEDY RECOVERY I AM, YOUR NEPHEW, ANDREW.

YANKS BOOST THEIR LEAD

New York, August 28.—The New York Yankees increased their lead in the American league leadership to a game and a half today by defeating St. Louis 2 to 1 in an extra inning game. The Yankees won 3 of the 4 games played in the series.

Shocker, winner of the first game of the series, found a stubborn opponent in Shawkey, who pitched one of the best games of his career.

New York scored its first run in the second inning, when Schang singled and scored on Ward's triple. Severed tied the score in the fifth with a home run into the leftfield bleachers, the only extra base hit off Shawkey.

The game remained deadlocked until the eleventh when Dugan led off with a single, Ruth popped out but Ripp's single advanced Dugan to third. Schang was intentionally passed and Meusel drove out a sacrifice fly to Tobin which was so deep that no effort was made to get Dugan at the plate.

FORD PLANT LOSING CAUSES TRADERS TO SELL

Coca-Cola Company Pays $1 Per Share On Common Stock

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS

Cotton Business Dull; Prices Show Advance

Coca-Cola Company Pays $1 Per Share On Common Stock

BY R. T. BARNUM
Constitution's Financial Correspondent.

New York, August 28.—The Coca-Cola Company declared a dividend of $1 per share on common stock, payable October 1, to stockholders of record September 15.

Traders sold the market today on the sensational statement issued over Sunday by Ford to the effect that, because of coal shortage and the high prices being charged for fuel, he would, on September 16, close down his plants, throwing 80,000 men at Detroit out of work, and over 100,000 all told.

The opening of the railway maintenance of way men's case before the railroad labor board today asking for higher wages was also used to depress prices. Declines in the rails were general.

Steel shares were soft on unconfirmed rumors that something unfavorable on the steel situation was coming out of Washington.

Wall street had many guesses as to Ford's motive in putting out his statement. One was that he would use the fact situation to take advantage of the seasonal trend of automobile buying. Another one was that with an election coming in Michigan before long Ford was trying to stir up Detroit business men to bring pressure on the administration at Washington to end the railroad strike. In this connection it was pointed out that when Ford bought the Detroit, Toledo and Iron and Ohio railroad he gave his own road a decided advantage. Today, it was declared, the trunk lines are taking advantage of the fuel situation to give Ford in large doses some of his own medicine in the division of freight.

Wall street heard early in the day over private Washington wires that a Federal Fuel Distributor Spencer believed the fuel situation to again be serious. Many of the railroads Spencer said were below their storage requirements.

Directors of the New York Shipbuilding company met today and passed the quarterly dividend. The company paid 50 cents in June. Up to that time $1 had been paid for the year. Chairman of the board, F. A. S. Franklin, after pointing out that $1.50 had been paid this year expressed the hope that for 1923 as much would be paid. Neither the shipping nor the shipbuilding business has been prosperous this year. Wall street would not be surprised to see Mercantile Marine, Franklin's own company, pass its next dividend. World conditions, falling exports and restricted immigration have all affected shipping earnings.

Atchafalpa reports for July 1923 operating income of $4,000,000 against $6,028,000 a year ago and $5,559,000 for 1920 with net for the seven months of the year at $16,225,000. For 1922, $15,558,000 for 1921, $21,829,000 for 1920. For July gross was $18,502,000 against $19,174,000 for 1921 and $20,827,000 for 1920. For the seven months gross this year was $115,570,000 against $129,927,000 a year ago and $136,380,000 two years ago.

A shipment of 28 boxes of gold arrived here today from England on the Baltic valued at $850,000. This was for several banks. Tomorrow a shipment of $3,300,000 is expected on the Majestic for J. P. Morgan and company, making gold imports for that firm this year $37,545,000.

There was no change during the first day of the week in money rates. Call money advanced to 3 3/4 per cent. For 60-day money a per cent was quoted; for 90 to 120 days the rate was 4 1/4 to 4 1/2 for 6 months. The Reichsbank had increased its discount rate from 6 per cent to 7. The rate was increased to 6 per cent on July 28 last, which was the first change since 1914. Further increases growing out of the depreciation of over 90 per cent in the mark are expected by bankers here.

Consolidated Gas which made a new high record for the year Saturday at 140 but closed at 138 made a new high record for the year in the first 10 minutes of trading today on heavy buying. The low for the year was 85. This stock has been bought first on the recent increase in the dividend and then on rumors that two shares of new stock are to be given for one old share with the rate on the new stock 5 per cent which would be equivalent to 10 on the old stock. The dividend rate was advanced from 7 per cent to 8 a few weeks ago.

All of the public utility securities are making a good showing in comparison with the outlook bright for further improvement. For weeks past as has been pointed out in this column the best posted bankers here have been the best posted bankers here. The Illinois Central which also carries a heavy coal tonnage seems to be getting along very well despite the strike. For July that company reported a gross of $12,025,000 against $11,708,000, net $15,805,000, increase of $6,726,000 and $1,148,000. For the seven months gross of $91,738,000, net $105,800,000, while net of $124,148,000 shows a gain of $2,214,000.

New York, August 28.—Unfavorable week-end developments in the industrial situation, combined with aggressive short selling and a slight increase of demand, resulted in a moderate recession of prices in today's stock market. A sharp break in French government and municipal bonds, Pool operations forced up several tobacco and gas shares to the highest prices of the year, but the bidding up of these stocks failed to check the decline elsewhere.

American tobacco closed at a net gain of four points, but no reason other than the assertion that it has been "out of line" with other high-priced industrials was forthcoming for its brisk rise in a generally reactionary market.

Live Stock.

REPARATIONS POW STILL UNSETTLED

Paris, August 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The reparations commission met again today in an effort to reach a unanimous agreement regarding the German question for a moratorium on her indemnity payments.

At the end of several hours of discussion, the British and French viewpoints were widely varied, and the Belgian plan and the other was an amplification of a last-minute suggestion offered by Germany just before Sir John Bradbury and Eugene Maulever, British and French members of the commission, left Berlin for Paris last week.

Two projected solutions were discussed. One of them was known as the Belgian plan and the other was an amplification of a last-minute suggestion offered by Germany just before Sir John Bradbury and Eugene Maulever, British and French members of the commission, left Berlin for Paris last week.

The Belgian plan has been unofficially offered as a means of preventing a break between England and France on the reparations issue. Unlong-term terms Belgium would accept long-term terms in place of the long-term cash payments due this year, amounting to 150,000,000 gold marks.

As a guarantee of ultimate payment of the reparations, Belgium would deposit 210,000,000 gold marks in the Bank of England. France has not definitely declared herself on this proposal. England and Italy already have approved of the proposition.

The German plan would meet Premier Poincare's demand for allied forests by a guarantee to France of the products of these resources during the period of the moratorium. Failure to promptly deliver the stipulated timber and coal would result in the seizure of certain mines which would be designated in the agreement.

British approval is behind this arrangement, which is regarded as giving France the product of the mines she seeks without actually turning over political control of the mines and forests.

Canada has 4,080 men enrolled in the permanent active militia. The reserve force numbers 41,236 of all ranks.
